Kidney Beans And a Memory

I am one of those fascinated by the supermarkets. One of my major recreations is to be turned loose in one with a mobile basket and to go up and down the aisles, looking at labels, thinking of all the farms, kitchens, railways, tin mines, factories, assembly lines, glass plants, bottle factories, the millions of hands at work plowing, selecting, picking, packing, mixing, chopping—

Before the olives I remember how olive trees look, silver and bluish-gray, the leaves turning in the wind the way the quaking aspens do. I can smell the Mediterranean and feel its suns. Before the peas and corn and beans I can smell the hot suns on the vegetable fields and see the rows of pickers.

But the other day, walking the aisles, beaming upon the display rows, I came upon the humble dried legumes — blackeyed peas, lady peas, split peas, black beans, navy beans, lentils, and big red kidney beans.

It was the kidney beans which stopped me. It is curious about the mind. No one knows much about it. But each of us knows how it will etch deeply upon its cerebral curves some trivial incident and keep it there forever, while recollections of things and persons, great and powerful, can be dredged up only with difficulty and in blurry focus.

Memory

I stood there in the big store, air-conditioned and lighted like a surgical room at the time of an operation, and looked at the beans. I was held there because I could remember a house in a poor section of a city, with the musty, earth smell of a flooded river about us, and a young and self-conscious girl saying, "Mama says for you all to come in and get warm."

It was in my third year at McCallie School on Missionary Ridge above Chattanooga, Tennessee, that the Tennessee River Valley suffered one of its huge floods, which came with great frequency until the TVA dams tamed that river of the pioneers, John Ross, John Sevier, of Chief Dragging Canoe's Cherokees, the long rifles and mountain men who passed that way.

This was winter. Within two days much of the city was flooded. One morning we had a call for rescue workers and boats. Malcolm Williams, now a utility executive in New Orleans, and I were loaded with a boat from the school lake into a half-ton Ford pickup truck and driven to the floodwaters.

All that day we rowed to the windows of houses in the factory area near the river and brought out the people, their mattresses, Bibles, quilts, chairs and their favorite belongings. It was well after dark when, weary and starved, we beached the boat and started walking to find some place to eat.

Warmth

At one corner there was a great collection of furniture, weeping, fearful people and relief workers, all lit by a half dozen flaring acetylene torches. A girl and her mother stood in one of the doorways. Suddenly she ran out to us and said, "Mama says for you all to come in and get warm." She was about 16 and so were we.

The mother made us welcome. We warmed before a grate fire. Pretty soon, as we talked, it became clear to us. The girl was on a high school discussion team group with whom we had competed. The mother asked us if we would have supper. She said they had not prepared much. There was a huge bowl of kidney beans, cooked with large chunks of pork. There was home-made bread and butter. We ate hugely.

Later we went back to our boat with flares of our own. All that night and the next day we worked. The next night we helped guard the refugee-jammed armory, wearing big .45 pistols. The next day we went home and slept around the clock. I always meant to go back one day and visit with the girl and her mother. I never did. I guess it was the self-consciousness of being 16. But, I have never forgotten. Every time I see kidney beans in a supermarket I think of her, the mother, and see again the flaring lights, hear again the weeping, the expressions of misery and fear, smell the yellow, ugly river, muddy and frothing, remember the warmth of the room, the smell of the beans and fresh bread, and the warmth of the fire. I remember that better than the faces of kings and of generals and of great men met across the years. And I wish the girl knew it.

Get Jessup's Nomination, Solons Asked

McCarran Wants Pre-recess Vote

New York Times News Service
Special to The Atlanta Constitution

WASHINGTON, Oct. 14—Senator McCarran (Dem., Nev.) called upon the Senate leadership Sunday to bring to a vote the nomination of Dr. Philip C. Jessup as United States delegate to the United Nations before Congress adjourns.

Frankly stating he opposed confirmation, the Nevadan, a power in the Senate as chairman of the Judiciary Committee, said he was "convinced the Senate will vote against confirming him if it is given the chance."

He said he wanted the issue met before adjournment, now scheduled for the weekend, to prevent the possibility of a recess appointment by the President that would send Jessup to the UN without any action by the Senate.

"Jessup should not be permitted to serve under any circumstances" the Senator said.

"I am against confirming Jessup and I want to say now I also am opposed to any kind of action that would make it possible for the President to give him a recess appointment."

Jessup's name cropped up frequently during long hearings by a judiciary subcommittee on internal security that has been investigating formulation of American policies in the Far East.

Heinz Favors Red Feather's United Appeal

By CECIL COFFEY

A united, once-a-year funds appeal under the Red Feather plan of the Community Chest for recognized national drives and additional local organizations was advocated Sunday by H. J. Heinz, national chairman of the United Red Feather Drives of America.

In Atlanta to spark the kickoff Monday of the Greater Atlanta Community Chest Drive, Heinz said "all welfare organizations that can adjust their policies to those of the Community Chest and that will co-operate on a community-wide basis" should logically join in one big drive.

He said Los Angeles, Detroit and Philadelphia have already incorporated campaigns of the Red Cross, March of Dimes and similar organizations into a "once-a-year campaign."

Heinz said an "in-plant federation" plan in Detroit, which takes an average of 10 minutes pay a week from workers on a voluntary membership basis, has "proved to be highly successful." He predicted this and other plans to eliminate "one drive after an-

UN Choices Set Against Red China

Opinions Vary On Formosa

By JAY WALZ

New York Times News Service
Special to The Atlanta Constitution

WASHINGTON, Oct. 14—President Truman's 10 nominees for the United States delegation to the United Nations went on record Sunday night as opposing recognition of Communist China at present.

They are also against admitting the Peiping government's representatives to the UN, and say they are not in favor of having Formosa, seat of the Nationalist China government, turned over to Communist China.

These unanimous views, along with some others in which the nominees did not see eye to eye, were contained in replies to direct questions asked them by Sen. Smith, Republican of New Jersey, who is a member of the Senate Foreign Relations Subcommittee now considering the nominations.

The group includes Warren R. Austin, chief United States delegate to the UN, and Mrs. Franklin D. Roosevelt, who has been serving as a delegate to the UN General Assembly from its beginning. Also included is Ambassador-at-Large Philip C. Jessup, subject of the principal controversy stirred by the nominations.

In the course of some two weeks of hearings, Jessup has been attacked as favoring, if not leading, a State Department policy of "softness" so far as Communist China is concerned. He has also been charged with a pro-Communist background. He has denied such charges on the witness stand, and in his reply to Sen. Smith's query cited his testimony to the effect that far from thinking of Communist China in terms of a "soft" policy, he is a strong opponent of such an attitude.

Sen. Smith, an old friend of Jessup's, has been regarded as the

Snub Seen For West's Suez Plan

Egypt May Ask Governor Ouster

CAIRO, Oct. 14—(AP)—An influential member of parliament and several Cairo newspapers predicted Sunday Egypt will quickly reject the Western power plan to make the Suez an international defense base.

The proposal made Saturday by the United States, Britain, France and Turkey would replace British troops in the Suez with an international force of the world-wide defense against communism. Egypt would be dealt in as a full partner.

Egypt also is expected to turn down new British proposals for the Anglo-Egyptian Sudan and a cabinet official hinted an ouster campaign may be started against the Sudan's British governor-general, Sir Robert Howe.

PLAN INTRODUCED

Howe introduced the new British plan for the Sudan to his executive council in Khartoum and said he would resist any attempt to change the administration. The new plan rejects Egyptian demands and calls for an international commission to advise Britain and Egypt.

Egypt has announced intentions of forcing British troops out of the Suez area and placing the million-square-mile Sudan under the crown of King Farouk after 53 years of nominal joint rule by Britain and Egypt.

The British have said they will use force if necessary to keep troops in the Suez. This was followed by Howe's statement in Khartoum and Egyptian reaction was immediate and bitter.

INSUBORDINATION

On hearing of Howe's statement the Egyptian minister for Sudan affairs, Ibrahim Farag Pasha, said at Alexandria that Howe's behavior amounted to insubordination.

He told reporters that Egypt considers the 1899 British-Egyptian agreement for joint rule of the Sudan is ended and that Howe works for the Egyptian government now.

Farag said Howe's statement

Ex-Senator Mentioned for Boyle's Post

New York Times News Service
Special to The Atlanta Constitution

WASHINGTON, Oct. 14—The Democratic National Committee will be convened here on or about Nov. 1 to elect a national chairman to succeed William M. Boyle, Jr., who submitted his resignation yesterday in a letter to President Truman.

The call will be issued by Boyle, who has been under running fire for weeks because of his outside relations with government agencies, notably the Reconstruction Finance Corporation, while serving the committee.

In his letter of resignation, the chairman said he "at all times conducted himself with honor and propriety" and was quitting because ill health would make it impossible for him to run an arduous national campaign.

The fact that it takes at least two weeks to call the national committee into session gives President Truman time to look around for a successor. While the national committee elects, it can be expected to follow to the letter the President's desires.

As the President began this task, Sen. Nixon (Rep., Calif.) revealed he had been assured by Sen. Hoey (Dem., N. C.), who heads the Senate investigation into improper influences on the RFC, that the investigation of Boyle would be continued.

Speculation as to Boyle's successor centered very largely about John L. Sullivan, former Secretary of the Navy, and former Sen. Francis J. Myers, of Pennsylvania. Both are lawyers, with Washington practices, however, and, in view of the embarrassment that resulted from Boyle's law connections, the President might be reluctant to name either.

Both men, however, are credited with sound political judgment, and, with a national election in the offing, the President might be willing to risk Republican attack to get a qualified organization leader.

UN Troops Believed Saved at Sea

Storm-Tossed Ship Feared Breaking Up

TOKYO, Monday, Oct. 15—(AP) — An Allied troopship reported breaking up and in danger of sinking in a storm-lashed sea 35 miles off southwest Japan today failed to answer radio calls of rescue ships.

Gen. Matthew B. Ridgway's headquarters said it was believed the several hundred United Nations troops and crew had been put ashore on a small island a quarter-mile from the grounded ship.

The ship, the Japanese-owned Kongo Maru, was driven aground Sunday night by a howling typhoon 35 miles west of Sasebo, port on Japan's southernmost main island of Kyushu.

Ridgway's headquarters did not disclose the nationality of the allied troops. They were en route from Sasebo to Pusan, Korea.

RESCUE SHIPS

Several rescue ships were plowing through heavy seas toward the stranded vessel.

National police headquarters reported earlier that the ship, under lease to the U. S. maritime service, was in danger of sinking.

It said their last report was received from the ship at 9 a. m. and at that time none of the passengers had been removed.

Huge waves were reported crashing over the masts.

Among the ships racing to the rescue was the transport George C. Clymer, the repair ship-landing craft Spinx and a salvage vessel.

The typhoon, now headed out to sea northwest of Tokyo, caused great washouts, landslides and floods throughout southern Japan.

The typhoon lashed Japan's main island of Honshu. Kyodo News Agency reported the casualty toll early Monday morning as 20 dead, 32 injured and 12 missing.

ALL PLANES GROUNDED

The Japanese Maritime Safety Office said seven other ships including a 17,000-ton Panamanian vessel (name not given) were battling heavy seas between Kyushu and Okinawa.

All planes were grounded in the Tokyo area as the typhoon approached central Japan. Courier service from Korea was temporarily interrupted.

The storm—labeled Typhoon Ruth—veered north of the Philippines, gave Formosa a relatively mild sideswipe, then headed up the Sea of Japan, causing heavy damage to houses and small craft at sea.

Normal Fall Day, Mild Weather Promised Georgia

Things ought to be just about normal in Georgia Monday and Tuesday—weatherwise, anyway.

"Partly cloudy and continued mild" is predicted for both days, with a high Monday of 74 after a low of 50 and extremes Tuesday of 52 and 74, slightly higher than Sunday's two-below-normal range of 51-73.

Incidentally, it hasn't rained in Atlanta this month, but possible showers later in the week are predicted for most of the state—including Atlanta.

The announcement said an undisclosed number of organizers was arrested and other expelled from the city.

Red Sector Smashed As North Koreans Riot; Allies Admit Strafing

Sympathy Offered Reds By Ridgway

TOKYO, Oct 15—(UP)—Allied and Communist liaison officers held their fifth meeting in the Panmunjom "circus tent" Monday, with prospects considerably brighter for early resumption of armistice negotiations.

Gen. Matthew B. Ridgway's frank admission Sunday that Allied airmen shot up the Kaesong-Panmunjom truce area Friday was believed to have paid the Communists' latest price for calling full-dress truce talks as early as possible.

DELIVER TEXT

Col. Andrew J. Kinney of Atlanta, Col. James C. Murray and South Korean Lt. Col. Lee Soo Young flew to Monday's session in helicopters.

The conference lasted three hours. There was no immediate announcement of results.

Only one thorny problem still faced the liaison officers as they met to work out a set of ground rules to cover the prospective meetings—the size of the truce zone. It was believed this could soon be settled.

MANY PITFALLS

Observers warned that many pitfalls lay along the way to o negotiated peace in Korea, but the following signs boomed prospects for resumption of the long stalled armistice conference:

Chinese Flee Front; UN Gains 8 Miles

By GENE SYMONDS

TOKYO, Oct. 15 — (UP)—Three Allied divisions smashed ahead up to four miles Monday toward the Central Korean Communist base of Kumsong and there were reports of anti-Communist riots in North Korea.

A front dispatch said that in one sector of the front Chinese infantrymen suddenly retreated Monday, leaving equipment and ammunition, and that Allied infantrymen captured five more important hills below Kumsong without firing a shot.

Monday's gains brought to about eight miles the total advance since the Allied offensive jumped off three days ago heavily supported by tanks and artillery. They have now captured a total of 17 vital peaks on the approaches to the Central Korean Red base.

United Press staff correspondent Robert Miller reported from Korea that refugees arriving from North Korea said there had been six anti-Communist riots in Pyongyang, capital of North Korea, and the nearby cities of Chinnampo, Taepyong and Chinjidong during recent weeks—the first reported since the war began.

The refugees reported morale extremely low, with North Koreans openly hostile to the police who quelled the riots. They reported considerable dissension between Chinese and North Koreans, with increasing numbers of desertions from the Red armies.

On the fighting front, rain and bad weather hindered the Allied operation on the eastern sector of the line where the Communists threw a heavy barrage of mortars and artillery at newly won Allied positions atop "Heartbreak Ridge." No enemy counterattacks were reported, however. Some Allied units gained more than a mile above Yanggu on the eastern front.

The big Allied gains were made on the central sector.

The three Allied divisions smashing ahead on a 22-mile front captured five key hills Sunday. Two regiments shoved off at dawn on a four-mile front and drove forward two miles after the fleeing Chinese to capture five more hills.

Mossadegh Challenges Jurisdiction

New York Times News Service
Special to Atlanta Journal-Constitution

UNITED NATIONS, N. Y., Oct. 14—Premier Mohammed Mossadegh of Iran will go before the United Nations Security Council Monday to insist that the British-Iranian oil dispute is purely a domestic matter and outside the Council's jurisdiction.

The 72-year-old diplomat plans to speak only briefly in Persian when the council convenes at Flushing Meadow at 3 p. m. His 40-page text will be read by an assistant. It will contain a point-by-point reply to the contention made by Britain when she brought the case to the United Nations charging that Iran's nationalization of the Anglo-Iranian oil industry at Abadan and the ouster of British technicians had created inflammatory conditions in the Near East and a threat to peace.

Britain's side of the controversy will be given by Sir Gladwyn Jebb and is expected to pursue the argument that Iran's seizure of the Abadan refineries—the world's largest—flouted the authority of the International Court of Justice

The resolution faces tough sledding. The Soviet Union opposed the opening of the case last week and could veto the British text or the resolution could fail because of not mustering the necessary seven votes.

On the eve of the council meeting, Dr. Hussein Fatemi, assistant to the premier, once again repeated Iran's position that the case was outside the scope of the United Nations and he added his delegate was prepared to sit until it could "persuade" the council of this fact.

Collins, Tito Hold Parley On Arms Aid

BELGRADE, Yugoslavia, Oct. 14—Gen. J. Lawton Collins, United States Army Chief of Staff, explored Sunday afternoon with Premier Marshal Tito and Col. Gen. Kocha Popovic, the chief of the Yugoslav General Staff, fundamental problems arising from the Yugoslav request for large-scale assistance in weapons, ammunitions and other military supplies.

Collins is scheduled to leave Belgrade Monday morning for Zagreb and then for an unknown destination in Croatia to see Yugoslav troops in the field and assess the quality of their training and proficiency in the use of weapons.

A qualitative valuation of the Yugoslav ground forces will be necessary among other things before the United States Government can decide on the extent of the military assistance program it may draw up for Yugoslavia.

French Vote Hits at Reds, Boosts Center

By LANSING WARREN

Special to The Atlanta Constitution

PARIS, Monday, Oct. 15—Complete returns in the second and decisive ballot in the French cantonal elections for the members of the departmental councils—taken with the figures of the vote of Oct. 7—confirmed Monday the shift of the support in France's conservative provinces away from the Communists and the left to favor parties of the center and the right.

The Communists were heavy losers, as were the Socialists, who on this ballot drew out many candidates to beat their Stalinist rivals, and the greatest winners were the Independents of the center and right. The De Gaullists, who upon this second voting contrived to make a lot of alliances with the moderates, were second among the gainers of the day.

As they stood Monday, the results could be taken as a proof both of the strong position of the third force governmental parties and of the possibility of a shift in the majority to right. But the opinion among French observers was that these changes were not sharp enough to alter the national party status. They considered that the future of the government was more bound up in the economic situation and the fate of the franc than with the intricate alterations of the party groupings.

Interpretation of the vote was hampered by the indifference of the public to these elections, which are largely local affairs and in which 40 percent of the registered voters failed to go to the polls. It was noted though that the solid double front preserved in all previous elections by the center coalition against both the Communists and the followers of Charles de Gaulle was for the first time broken down, and the De Gaullists were accorded quite a large degree of help—mostly from conservative groups, but also from Popular Republicans.

Another obvious inference was that the Socialists made a mistake to base their campaign almost wholly on their secular program in the schools. The elections showed that rural France, at least, was not moved as it used to be by

Tory Foreign Policy Similar to Labor's

By RAYMOND DANIELL
New York Times News Service, Special to The Atlanta Constitution

LONDON, Oct. 14—Despite all the criticism that has been voiced by the Conservatives against the Labor government's foreign policy in the electoral campaign, little change is to be expected if the people of Britain call upon Winston Churchill to form a government on Oct. 25.

This is the view not only of the little handful of Conservative Party leaders who enjoy the confidence of Churchill, but it is the considered judgment of foreign diplomats here whose responsibility it is to inform their governments of any impending shifts in the course of British foreign relations.

However, there are some interesting nuances in the manner in which the Conservatives would apply current British policies. Neither Churchill nor Anthony Eden believes that force should have been used by Britain at Abadan, nor that a resort to arms is the solution for the present dispute with Egypt. By a "strong" and "firm" policy they mean a consistent policy, and this they feel the present government, with Herbert Morrison as foreign secretary, has failed to follow.

ARAB POLICY

For the sake of placating the Arab world, a Conservative government could be expected to show more warmth to Pakistan than to India, while working quietly for a reconciliation between Israel and its neighbor states. And in Near Eastern affairs generally, Britain would insist on a voice at least equal to that of the United States.

Although there seems to be a general belief, both here and in the United States, that a British government under Churchill would be less implacable and more compliant with American wishes, there seems little basis for it. On the contrary, while Anglo-American relations would be handled with more urbanity than the Labor Government has shown recently, the probability is that while yielding gracefully to American wishes in minor matters a government headed by Churchill would pursue an even more distinctively British line.

Churchill seems to feel that his enormous prestige in the United States would enable him to do this and at the same time seek and receive more American help in the difficult economic period that lies ahead. The government line would probably be that American dollars, coupled with the experience of Churchill and his cabinet of war-tested colleagues, could accomplish far more than the dollars all by themselves, although it hardly would be expressed quite that crudely.

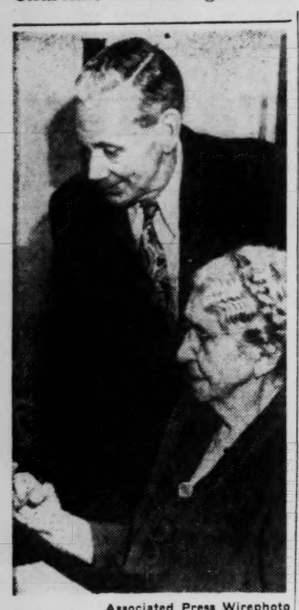

RECOGNIZE PEIPING

In the Far East a Conservative government, while liking the Communists no better than the Truman Administration, would continue to give recognition to the Communist People's Republic of China. While willing to go along with the Japanese peace treaty, a Conservative government would probably enact legislation to protect British industry from "unfair" competition with the low-paid labor of Japan.

In Europe the Conservatives would give lukewarm support to German rearmament and agree to the creation of a European army, to which they would, however, contribute nothing much beyond advice. They would give verbal support to ideas for European unity but would probably find as many practical obstacles to its realization as the Labor government has done.

The cornerstone of Conservative British foreign policy would be unity with the empire, and of course the preservation of the empire preferences system by which producers throughout the Commonwealth enjoy a place in the competitive scheme of things second only to domestic manufacturers and producers. They would also of course strive for closer ties with the United States as equal partners in any alliance and continue to support the United Nations.

All this is contingent, however, upon their winning the election on Oct. 25. The latest "Gallup" poll published by the News Chronicle on Friday showed that as the campaign advances Labor is closing the gap. Only a week ago the same poll gave the Conservatives 49.5 percent of the vote to Labor's 43 percent. The latest figures are 49 percent for the Conservatives and 44 percent for Labor, with part of Labor's increased strength coming from those who formerly were undecided. Even so slight a shift as this could make a difference of 30 seats in the new House of Commons, it is estimated.

Democracy Vital, Rabbi Tells Legion

MIAMI, Fla., Oct. 14—(U.P.)—The American Legion honored its dead at a solemn memorial service here Sunday night on the eve of its 33rd national convention.

Shortly after an address by the Rabbi David Lefkowitz, Jr., Shreveport, La., national chaplain, Legionnaires resumed their fun-making at the annual 40 and 8 Society parade on Miami Beach.

Come hurricane or anything else, the regular convention sessions begin Monday with some 50,000 Legionnaires on hand, 6,000 of them voting delegates.

Secretary of Defense Robert A. Lovett will deliver Monday's principal address, his first major speech since he became head of the Defense Department. Accompanying him will be Mrs. Anna Rosenberg.

DEMOCRACY IS VITAL

Rabbi Lefkowitz told the memorial crowd in Bayfront Park that democracy "is not a mere answer to communism—it is a vital, vibrant movement of its very own."

"So long as we are motivated by the Communist reaction to the issue of democracy, we have missed the real lesson American history should teach us," he said. "Democratic practice is its own rich, full reward."

Rabbi Lefkowitz said America's citizens must practice democracy "without regard to what our enemies might have to say."

Meanwhile, the convention committee on child welfare considered a strongly worded resolution to fight the increased use of narcotics by juveniles.

FIGHT NARCOTICS TRADE

The proposed 15-point program calls for strengthening laws on the federal, state and local levels to prosecute narcotics peddlers and users more severely and to increase appropriations so that responsible officials are able to enforce the narcotics laws.

The 8 and 40, honor society of the Legion's Women's Auxiliary, elected Mrs. Otis Aaron, of Dallas, Texas, as national president, succeeding Mrs. Herman Edwards, of Portland, Ore.

Regional vice presidents chosen were Mrs. A. E. Reinhard, Miami; Josephine Dorwalt, Harrisburg, Pa.; Mrs. Leo Trudell, Detroit; Mrs. Mary Grenier, Deer Lodge, Mont., and Mrs. Harry Gray, San Francisco.

Bad Checks Trap Man Impersonating AF Pilot

A 28-year-old man who admitted he had "a champagne taste and a beer pocketbook" has been arrested on charges of impersonating an Air Force officer, the FBI announced Sunday.

John C. Bills, special agent in charge of the Atlanta office of the Federal Bureau of Investigation, listed the man as Robert S. Martin of Gainesville. He was arrested in Buford Saturday night.

Bills said Martin has posed as an officer since buying a uniform Sept. 26, with a bad check written on a Gainesville bank. He said Martin had passed bogus checks to several hotels and stores in Georgia, Tennessee, Kentucky and Ohio.

The agent said when Martin was arrested he was wearing the uniform with captain's bars, pilot wings and ribbons representing the Purple Heart with two citations, the Distinguished Flying Cross, the Silver Star, Air Medal, European theater of operations, Pacific theater, Asiatic and Korean campaigns.

Martin also had an automobile which he had rented with a bad check, Bills said.

The FBI said Martin married his fifth wife three weeks ago and took her to Chattanooga on a honeymoon in another rented car. Martin left his wife in Chattanooga and abandoned the car at an Athens garage which refused to take his check to cover cost of repairs.

Bills said Martin's earlier marriages lasted from four days to six months and ended either in divorce or annulment.

A Federal court sentenced Martin to 18 months in 1941 on another charge of impersonation, the agent continued. He was released on three years' probation in 1943.

Martin received a five-year sentence in 1947 for interstate transportation of a stolen car. When conditionally released from the Atlanta Federal penitentiary last July, Bills said, Martin posted bond in Fulton County with money received from bad checks written in 1947.

Bills said the man lives in Gainesville and will be given a hearing before U. S. Commissioner Wilson Smith in Gainesville.

80 MPH Blow Alerts 50,000 Vets at Miami

MIAMI, Fla., Oct. 14—(UP)—An 80-mile-an-hour hurricane boiled up in the Caribbean Sunday and the Weather Bureau warned south Florida and its 50,000 anxious American Legion guests to stand by on the alert.

The Weather Bureau said the storm, with winds at 80 miles an hour, was 380 miles south-southwest of Miami and moving very slowly northward.

Few of the Legionnaires attending their 33rd annual convention had heard of the tropical blow while making rounds of their presession meetings and the "Gold Coast" bars.

They crowded the sidewalks, huddled around pranksters and tooted the horns of their trackless trains, echoing the sentiment of Robert Cutbert, of Spooner, Wisc.: "What's the use of worrying?"

"I don't know what it might be like to be in a hurricane," B. E. Shelor, of Floyd, Va., said. "But I'm staying to find out."

But many Legionnaires had their wives along and they were listening to radio reports from a more sober viewpoint. To take care of them, the 500 hotels in the area were assuring guests they should have little fear of the storm until it gets much closer.

Legion officials feared that the storm might make hundreds leave town before the convention gets under way.

"The weather and the convention are two things we can't change," said Erle Cocke, national American Legion commander. "We are going right ahead."

The storm, small in area but with a well-defined center of whirling winds, was of near-hurricane strength when found by a Navy plane Sunday morning. It was 100 miles south of the Isle of Pines, part of Cuba.

It is moving northward about seven or eight miles an hour," storm forecaster Allen Marshall said. "It is much too close to home for comfort."

REGAINS SIGHT — DETROIT, Oct. 14—Mrs. Mary C. Newmann, 62, fell down a flight of 12 steps, severely bruising her forehead. But her cries were of delight when relatives reached her. "I can see, I can see," she cried. She had been blind for 18 years.

Kitten Is Rescued After 6 Days in Tree

A kitten that climbed a tree last Tuesday at 2128 Belvedere Dr., N. W., was rescued Sunday by a crew from the Georgia Power Company, after failing in earlier attempts.

Mrs. P. S. Gage, Jr., whose tree the kitten climbed, said she appealed to a dozen agencies for help in rescuing the cat, but that most of them told her they had no jurisdiction because she lives outside the city limits.

The kitten was too young to come down under its own power. After Sunday's rescue, Mrs. Gage said she gave the kitten to a friend.

high command his admission that two air attacks in the Kaesong area Friday "were made by aircraft of the United Nations command, in violation of standing instructions which specifically direct all units and pilots to avoid attack or over-flight of the Kaesong area." He accepted responsibility for the violations and promised to "take prompt and appropriate disciplinary actions." His forthright admission was expected to satisfy the Reds.

2. In a public statement Ridgway expressed "sympathy and heartfelt grief" to the Korean family of Kang Wang Dong, 12, who was killed near Panmunjom in the Friday strafing attack, and to his brother, Kang Yong Sik, 2, who was wounded. The statement was seen as further proof that the Allied command deplored neutrality violations.

3. Communist reporters in the Kaesong area suggested that the Reds would accept a truce line roughly following the present battle line—the basic bone of contention which had blocked progress throughout the talks. The Reds had insisted on the 38th Parallel.

4. "Some progress, however slight" was made Sunday at a 30-minute session of liaison officers, the shortest so far.

5. Allied officers set up accommodations for the day when—and if—the armistice teams meet again. Col. Kinney, senior liaison officer, Sunday picked the site for a tent in a paddy field across the road from the conference big top. It was believed to be the main tent for the Allied delegation.

But the most promising sign was the mild attitude taken by both sides in the strafing Friday. The Communists asked—did not "demand" as has been their custom—an explanation. They did not file a formal protest.

Double Czeching

PARIS—(INS)—Reports reaching Czechoslovak emigre sources in Paris say the Communist regime in Czechoslovakia is taking new measures to prevent escape to the West by plane. Every passenger plane that takes off from a Czechoslovak airport now has two armed policemen aboard; one to watch the passengers and the other to watch the crew.

Declares Gunman Acted Sleuth Role

An unidentified white man Sunday was accused of impersonating a detective, searching an automobile in a private parking lot and shooting a revolver at its passengers.

A 26-year-old Negro, Billie Graves, of 217 Henry St., in Decatur, told officers that a middle-aged man in a two-toned sedan forced him and his friends from his automobile at the point of a revolver in a parking lot in the 700 block of Spence Street, N. W. He said the man chased them away after taking the keys to the auto.

Man, Wife Killed by Bull On Iowa Farm

DURANGO, Iowa, Oct. 14—(AP). A bull, enraged when the farmer who owned him started to drive the cows to the barn for milking, killed the farmer and his wife Sunday.

Dead were Mike Magerus, 66, and his wife, Anna, 62. The tragedy occurred in a pasture on the Magerus farm near here. Durango is a tiny hamlet of about 50 persons, nine miles west of Dubuque.

The bull was shot and killed by three Durango men, Henry Butlett, Herman Tappe and William Haberkorn. Bartlett operates a grocery store and butcher shop in Durango. Butlett said it took 38 shots from .22-caliber rifles to kill the bull.

Sheriff Leo J. Martin said the bodies were found by Leroy Magerus, 23, son of the victims.

The sheriff quoted the son as saying his father went to bring the cattle in for milking, and Mrs. Magerus followed when her husband did not return.

When Mrs. Magerus did not return either, the son also went to the pasture and found the gored and trampled bodies of his parents with the bull standing a short distance away, Sheriff Martin said.

Baby Boy Disappears From Indiana Hospital

MICHIGAN CITY, Ind., Oct. 14—(AP)—A baby boy, born last Tuesday by caesarian section, was sought by police of three states Sunday after the infant disappeared Saturday night from the nursery of St. Anthony's Hospital in Michigan City. They reported "there's not a single clue."

The baby, Lawrence James Lyons, was taken from his crib, the one nearest the door of the fourth-floor nursery that led to an anteroom and back stairway.

In a broadcast over the Michigan City radio station, the father, James Lyons, a 37-year-old auto service station operator—his voice choked and halting—pleaded "I'd like to say please take good care of our baby."

"Don't harm him, and return him to the hospital, police station or to our home at 616 Wabash.

"His formula is six parts of evaporated milk, twelve parts boiled wather and one tablespoon Cartose. In two days this should be changed to seven parts of evaporated milk, 14 parts water and two tablespoons Cartose.

"I just brought my wife home from the hospital. She said she felt like she was going home from a funeral. What was to have been our happiest day, when we took the baby home, has turned out to be our saddest."

Lyons ended his appeal, "Please take good care of the baby and return him to the hospital."

BURIED RABBIT UNEARTHED

"We have turned the hospital and grounds inside out without finding a trace of the baby," Detective Capt. Charles Hanke said. "We even dug into a patch of fresh soil near the hospital and found a white rabbit buried there.

"We checked trains and busses. We investigated telephone calls. We checked milk deliveries. We asked help from Indiana and Michigan state police and from Chicago city police, and we haven't turned up a thing."

The child's mother, 37-year-old Frances Lyons, was to have stayed in the hospital several days to recover from her operation but doctors decided she should be taken home Sunday.

"She was in a ward," Capt. Hanke said, "and she was gradually going to pieces, watching babies brought in to the other mothers."

KIDNAPING DISCOUNTED

Police discounted the possibility of kidnaping for ransom because the Lyons family is not wealthy. There were 19 babies in the nursery, in three rows of cribs, and the baby taken was in an end crib. He was accounted for at 4 p. m. (CST) and the empty crib was noticed by a nurses' aide at 6:10 p. m.

Lyons has one other child, Dorothy, 19, by a previous marriage.

Loretta Margraf, head nurse, said Lyons visited his wife at the hospital about 5:30 p. m., but did not ask to see the baby then. She added that another nurses' aide, Donna Rowlands, saw the infant around 5 p. m., and was in and out of the nursery for the next hour or so, but did not notice he was missing until 6:10.

Authorities quoted Lyons as saying he has "no enemies and no money."

Eight Churchmen Going To Ohio

Eight Atlanta churchmen will leave early Tuesday for Cleveland, Ohio, to attend the annual Autumn Council of the Seventh-day Adventist Church, Oct. 19-30.

V. G. Anderson, president of the Southern Union Conference of Seventh-day Adventists with headquarters in Decatur, will head the Atlanta delegation.

Others in the Atlanta group are: H. E. Schneider, secretary-treasurer; A. O. Dart, child guidance and Sabbath school secretary; W. A. Higgins, publishing department secretary; A. P. McDow, auditor, all of the Southern Union Conference of S. D. A.; G. R. Nash, of Georgia Adventists; R. S. Blackburn, Adventist state treasurer, and H.D. Singleton, president of the South Atlantic Conference (Negro) of Seventh-day Adventists.

Atlanta Community Chest Campaign Will Be Topic on 'Views of News'

The need is greater than ever. . . . The time to give is now. . . . This vital subject will be discussed Monday night at 7:30 o'clock on Teevee's Views of the News by Ed Smith, Jr., General Co-Chairman of the Greater Atlanta Community Chest campaign, and Atlanta Journal Editor Wright Bryan. . . . This year the goal is higher than ever before and the urgency of reaching this goal will be stressed tonight. . . . See and hear the video version of Views of the News Monday night at 7:30 o'clock over the world's most powerful television station, WSB-TV, Channel 2.

key man on the five-man subcommittee about to decide on confirmation or rejection of the nominee, and the Senator's making public tonight the correspondence containing Jessup's reaffirmation of his anti-Communist stand drew interest for any indication it might give of the New Jersey Republican's personal decision in the matter.

In addition to Mrs. Roosevelt, Austin and Jessup, the delegate nominees from whom Sen. Smith heard are Rep. Mike Mansfield, (Dem., Mont.), and Rep. John M. Vorys, (Rep., Ohio).

ALTERNATES NAMED

Nominated as the five alternates, who also replied to the Smith questionnaires, are John Sherman Cooper, former Republican senator from Kentucky; Ambassador Ernest M. Gross; Benjamin C. Cohen; Mrs. Anna Lord Strauss, and Channing W. Tobias.

Sen. Smith, who forwarded his inquiries Oct. 5, said he asked the questions because of the fight over the Jessup nomination, and he thought it would be "a good idea" for the subcommittee to know the views of all the nominees on the questions about China that have been the core of the Jessup controversy.

The questions follow:

1. Are there any conditions under which you would approve the recognition by the United States of Communist China?

2. Are there any conditions under which you would approve the admission of the representatives of Communist China to the various organs of the United Nations?

3. What are you views concerning the exercise of the veto by the United States in the event that an attempt is made to admit the representatives of Communist China to the Security Council?

4 (A) Are there any conditions under which you would favor turning over Formosa to Communist China?

(B) What are you views concerning the consideration by the United Nations of the disposition of Formosa?

ANSWERS TO INJURY

Ambassador Austin emphasized he was answering the questions from a present point of view and wanted it clear that future decisions would have to be based on future conditions. He then answered the first two questions "No."

Mrs. Roosevelt prefaced her answers with a similar explanation that "I take it that you expect me to answer in the area of present day circumstances." The questions on recognition of Communist China and approving the admission of Red China delegates to the UN, she replied "Not at present."

Jessup cited his recent testimony before the subcommittee, where he said he had made it clear that he opposed recognizing Communist China, to admitting it to the UN, and to transferring Formosa to the Peiping regime.

"Under the existing circumstances as I have stated, recognition of the Chinese Communist regime cannot be a subject for consideration by this Government," Jessup said. The "existing circumstances," he pointed out created a situation in which Communist China had not shown she was (1) in full control of all of China; (2) ruling with the acquiescence of the Chinese people, and (3) was ready or able to carry out all of China's international obligations.

2 NOMINEES UNEQUIVOCAL

Reps. Mansfield and Vorys said unqualifiedly that there were no conditions under which they would favor recognition of Communist China, admitting it to the UN, or surrendering Formosa to the Communists.

The prospective delegates were farther apart on the subject of using the veto in the Security Council to bar Red China's admission.

Ambassador Austin, repeating what he told the subcommittee previously, said there was a question in his mind whether the veto could be used in this instance, but he thought it could not be.

Mrs. Roosevelt noted this country had objected to Russia's use of the veto to block admission "of any state" to the UN, and said she would "deplore our having to do what we disapproved of in other governments."

But, she added, the issue would have to be considered "in the light of the information and the situation," when it arose.

Jessup said he agreed with Secretary Acheson that "if it became necessary to determine whether our adverse vote in the Security Council had the force of a veto this question could be taken to the International Court of Justce."

Ike's Election Seen by Dewey

NEW YORK, Oct. 14—(AP)—Gov. Dewey said Sunday he is confident Gen. Eisenhower will be nominated on the Republican ticket and elected President in 1952.

"I believe he will be nominated on the Republican ticket and elected President because the country is in need of his peculiar abilities," Dewey said.

"His skill and background in dealing with foreign affairs is needed very much in the White House today."

The New York governor expressed his views in an interview on the National Broadcasting Company's television program, "meet the Press."

Pope Claims Seeing Mary Three Times

VATICAN CITY, Oct. 14—(AP)—Federico Cardinal Tedeschini told pilgrims at the Shrine of Fatima in Portugal Saturday that the Virgin Mary appeared three times to Pope Pius XII during the 1950 Holy Year.

The cardinal, who is the archpriest of St. Peter's Basilica, attended ceremonies at the shrine as the pontiff's delegate. His address was printed almost in full by the Vatican newspaper, L'Osservatore Romano.

The Pope, said Cardinal Tedeschini, saw the vision in the rays of the sun on Oct. 30, Oct. 31, and Nov. 1, 1950. It was on Nov. 1 that the Pope formally proclaimed the dogma of the Virgin Mary's bodily assumption into Heaven.

Cardinal Tedeschini, at Fatima for ceremonies closing the extended Holy Year outside Rome, told of the Virgin Mary's reported appearance at Fatima to three children in 1917. Then he added, according to L'Osservatore's account:

"I will tell you an even more marvelous thing. I will tell you that another person has seen this same miracle: he saw it outside of Fatima; he saw it years later; he saw it at Rome.

"The Pope, the same, our pontiff, Pius XII, he saw it!

"Was this a reward? Was this a sign of divine sovereign pleasure for the definition of the dogma of the assumption? Was this a celestial testimony, authenticating the marvels of Fatima with the center, with the head of truth and the Catholic magistracy? The three things together?"

The cardinal said the visions came to the Pope at the same time each day—4 p. m.—when he turned his gaze from the Vatican gardens to the sun."

other" will catch hold in most other American cities.

PRAISES PLAN

He said local campaigns by churches and some civic organizations should continue to be separate since their efforts are largely limited to their own membership.

Heinz expressed a "well-pleased" attitude toward the Atlanta Community Chest organization's plan for launching the 1951 Red Feather drive. He was highly optimistic of Atlanta's reaching its 1951 goal of $1,534,833 by Nov. 2.

Thirty-three Red Feather organizations and the United Defense Fund will benefit from funds raised during the two-week campaign.

KICKOFF AT NOON

Heinz will address a kickoff luncheon at noon Monday in the Biltmore Hotel that will send thousands of volunteer workers into action. To dramatize the USO feature of the drive, which has been added this year under the United Defense Fund, will be a three-block-long chest military caravan on display in various parts of Atlanta this week.

Heinz, together with regional, state and local leaders will start the caravan on its way at 11 a. m. Monday in Plaza Park. He will be assisted by Bobby Jones, regional UDF-USO chairman; Fred Turner, Georgia UDF-USO chairman; Chest President Mills B. Lane, Jr., and Chest Campaign Chairman E. D. Smith, Jr., Jack Glenn and Frank M. Ridley, Jr.

Others to take part in the kickoff activities are Mayor Hartsfield, County Commission Chairman Tom Camp, state officials and high-ranking military personnel in the Atlanta area.

"revealed he is working for British policy alone." He added that Egypt "will take the necessary measures" but did not say what they might be.

COULD BE FIRED

Howe could be fired by Egypt. The governor-general, under the treaty, is nominated by Britain and appointed by Egypt.

In Cairo, Armed Abul Fath, editor of the pro-government newspaper Al Misri and Wafdist (government party) deputy in parliament, said the proposals on the Suez and the Sudan "undoubtedly will be rejected in their entiretly."

"These proposals," he said, "are the strongest foundation proposed yet to establish imperialism in Egypt and the Sudan.

Egypt never will accept anything less than the immediate evacuation of British troops from the Suez bases and unity between Egypt an dthe Sudan."

Sikes Named to NSC

Capt. Thomas A. Sikes, Atlanta superintendent of traffic, has been appointed to the traffic section of the National Safety Council. He will serve on one of the executive committees of the NFC.

Graham Opens N. Carolina Meet

GREENSBORO, N. C., Oct. 14—(AP) — Billy Graham, well-known evengelist, with a voice he described as a "built-in public address system," opened a month's stand of an old-fashioned revival in his huge wooden tabernacle here Sunday. About 8,500 persons were in the wooden seats to hear him.

The burden of his sermon was that America and the world "are in a desperate mess, and we'll never get out of it without a great spiritual and moral revival . . . It is more important for you to be here every night these next four weeks, with your Bible, than for you to carry a gun on Heartbreak Ridge in Korea."

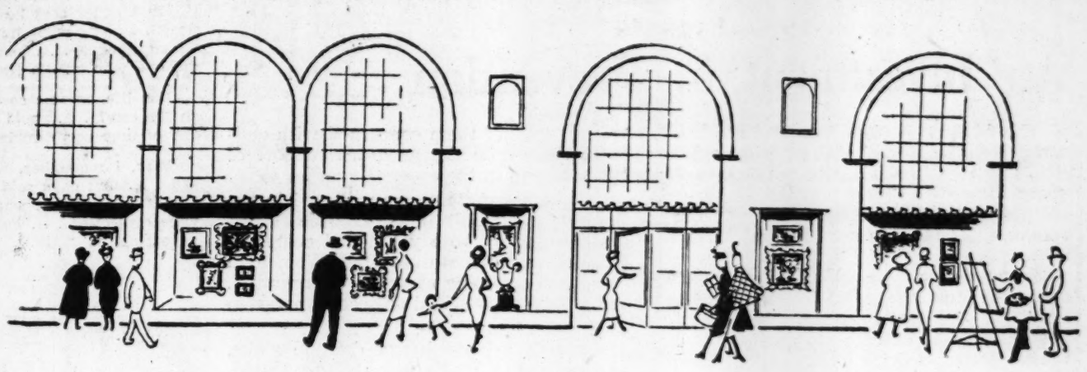

Baptist Schools Gain in Georgia

Georgia had 2,464 Sunday schools in Southern Baptist churches in 1950 with 429,673 members, according to the Department of Survey, Statistics and Information of the Sunday School Board.

The 1950 enrollment is an increase of 43,512 over 1949 figures. Growth on a percentage basis was greatest in small-town Sunday schools which increased 20.4 percent. More than 200,000 of the Sunday school members are in city church schools and nearly 130,000 belong to schools in open country churches.

What are the Dollar Signs Saying?

MAYBE you've noticed that dollars don't seem to talk as loud as they used to in a lot of places.

But you ought to hear what they say about this Buick.

They say – here's the big thrill – big mileage – big power of a valve-in-head Fireball Engine – eight-cylinder performance at the price you'll pay for most sixes.

They say–here are size and room and comfort that are hard to match at anywhere near the price tag this Buick SPECIAL is wearing.

They say – here are such things as an oil filter, air cleaner, vacuum booster, built-in summer ventilation – not as "extras" but yours at no extra charge.

They say that "smart buy's Buick" –by a wide measure.

But a smart buyer will also let this dashing darling speak for itself.

He'll take the wheel and feel how it snugs to the road on turns–holds its course on the highway with big-car assurance.

And he'll find out how coil springs on every wheel level out what he thought were bumpy roads.

Want to know more? How about coming in first thing tomorrow?

Equipment, accessories, trim and models are subject to change without notice.

An Investment in Prevention

The Greater Atlanta Community Chest campaign starts today with a goal of a million and a half dollars, the greatest in 27 years. Those who have planned the drive see the quota as a realistic one which represents the minimum need for the Atlanta area.

Beneficiaries will be 33 local service agencies plus the USO-United Defense Fund. Of the total amount, $104,735 has been allotted to defense purposes—the national United Service Organization, camp shows, and clothing for Korea.

Other factors besides defense contributing to the increased Chest budget are inflation, which affects welfare spending as it does everything else, and the growth of Atlanta, both in population and in area.

Leading the Community Chest drive as co-chairmen are three energetic young men, Jack F. Glenn, banker; Frank D. Ridley, insurance executive, and E. D. Smith, Jr., attorney.

These leaders stress the fact that the Community Chest, under the familiar Red Feather symbol, is Atlanta at its best, united to plan and finance voluntary health, welfare and youth service activities. The functions of the 33 agencies involved, most of them concerned with children, depend on the generous support of every citizen in the area.

"Defense programs are reflected in the Community Chest budget," the Chest chairmen say. "More youth and character building services are required. Women in jobs mean more day nurseries are required, and a more active child protection program generally."

Greater Atlanta has a definite stake, too, in the USO-United Defense Fund. More than 20,000 Atlantans are now in the armed forces. The number grows each week.

Surely Community Chest needs no selling. It is organized charity at its best, planned for convenience in giving, for economy and efficiency in administration of welfare funds.

Sometime in the next three weeks one of 10,000 volunteer workers will call at your home or office for your contribution to the million-and-a-half-dollar fund.

Make your check a big one. Remember, you are not making a donation. You are paying a premium on insurance against the spread of disease, crime and tyranny.

No Monopoly on Supply of Brains

Humility is not an American virtue. We trust that when we do learn the lesson of humility it will not be the hard way, through disaster.

Hence, we call attention to the results of testing Russian airplanes captured in Korea. The Cornell Aeronautical Laboratory put them through all the paces. Design and materials were subjected to thorough examination. Actual flight records were, of course, not revealed, but the report said:

"Where excellent workmanship counts, in respect to performance, Russian workmanship is as good as, and in some cases better than, ours.

"The Yak evidently was built by people who knew aircraft construction as well as any of our American aircraft factories. It probably was built in 1946 and it is equally as good in design as what we had at that time."

Let us keep in mind there is no monopoly on brains and skills and that we cannot win the competition by vain boasting or arrogant assumption that we can do things better than anyone else.

Training as Citizens, Not Criminals

State Director of Corrections R. E. Warren has announced that within a few weeks in Georgia youthful first offenders will be completely segregated from seasoned felons.

Between Oct. 15 and Nov. 1 the Georgia Juvenile Training Institute will be transferred from Rome to a new institution at Toccoa. Youthful prisoners from other penal institutions in the state also will be sent to the Toccoa facility, a former Army paratroop camp.

We commend the Department of Corrections on making this change, one long overdue.

As long as delinquent minors are housed with adult prisoners, they become apprentices in crime. Segregating them means that they can be trained as future good citizens.

A Place for Our Older Workers

The proportion of persons 65 years of age or older is steadily rising and their health is steadily improving under modern medical practices. The cost of their support, present estimates indicate, will be from 25 to 40 percent higher by 1975 than at present.

Conversely, statistics show that in 1890 more than two-thirds of the male population over 65 years of age were employed. This figure had dropped 50 years later to 42.2 percent, and today stands at about 45 percent.

Prof. Sumner H. Slichter, in an article published by the Wisconsin Federation of Labor, discusses this problem of employment for older workers and declares that at least three out of five should be in the labor force today. The need for employment of older workers will be permanent, he points out.

Quoting him: "A job is more than a source of income. It gives men a sence of participation in the affairs of the world; it protects them against the feeling that they are 'on the shelf.' In addition, it is a source of social contacts. Men who retire miss the associations of men in the shop who work beside them or with whom they eat lunch. All of this explains why even large pensions do not usually cause men to prefer retiring to working."

Professor Slichter makes three suggestions about utilizing the productive capacity of these older workers: (1) set the normal retirement age at 68 or 70 instead of 65; (2) encourage the spread of piecework as an inducement to employers to retain older workers who are slowing up; (3) give employers a special incentive to keep on older workers by using some of the income from the Federal old age insurance plan to pay a fifth or fourth of the annual earnings of workers kept beyond certain specified ages.

The number of jobs requiring physical exertion is diminishing. It should be possible and it is well worth every consideration to find an answer to the problem of using the ability and experience of the many thousands of older people whose energy can add greatly to the nation's output.

THE PULSE OF THE PUBLIC

Family Clinic

The Editors: Recently you published in the pulse of the public column a letter from Serene Smith, of Atlanta, suggesting the establishment of marital clinics throughout the state to save families and strengthen the foundations of our civilization.

It occurred to me that thousands of your readers would like to know that the Family Service Society of Fulton County, at 105 Forrest Avenue, N. E., offers this service now, free. This agency is staffed with 15 well trained, sympathetic family counsellors. It offers help on all types of personality and family problems.

Speaking of Water

The Editors: Mr. McGill's column quoting Bob Taylor—My version is that he was running for an office and having imbibed freely, but not too well, didn't know what kind of meeting he stumbled in but saw a lot of women.

Drowsily sitting in the back someone touched him on the shoulder and said they wanted him to come to the rostrum, which he did, and they asked him to speak a few words. He asked the chairlady on what subject and she said "Water." He still hadn't discovered it was a prohibition meeting—but he rallied valiantly and said:

"I have been asked to speak on water—the finest and grandest thing that God ever made. I have seen it in teardrops on the eyelids of sleeping children; I have seen it coursing down the cheeks of weeping widows. I have seen it falling over the mountainside in mist as fine as a bride's veil. I have seen it in the little brook on its way to the creek and I have seen it in the creeks on the way to the river and I have seen it in the rivers on the way to the mighty Mississippi—and I have seen it in the Mississippi on the way to the oceans on whose bosoms the battle fleets of the world rest. But I tell you now as a drink, it's a damned failure."

Doing Things Right

The Editors: The "dwelling inspector" of the City Fire Department has just left our home. He was young, polite and somewhat tense. When he had completed his inspection he started out but quickly turned to give us a copy of his report.

"The Atlanta Fire Department requests your co-operation in making your home safer from fire by correcting the following hazards:" Some 11 items are listed. We noticed that he had checked nine. I called to him to return for a minute. He explained that all of the things checked were all right. The unchecked ones did not apply to our home.

Is this indicative of the inefficiency of our fire department? During Fire Prevention Week is it not the intention to point out those things that need to be corrected? At least that is what the form indicates. If the inspection is to be of value, then it ought to be properly administered. Otherwise, there is no excuse for squandering the taxpayers' money.

GLADSTONE WILLIAMS

Taft Strategy Is 'Stop Ike'

WASHINGTON—After receiving an extensive report from his political scouts, Sen. Robert A. Taft is now going through the motions of giving ponderous consideration to the question of whether he is to become a candidate for the Republican presidential nomination next year. The report was prepared for the Ohio senator by two of his trusted political lieutenants, David S. Ingalls, of Cleveland, and Ben Tate, of Cincinnati. They have just completed a 55,000 mile survey of GOP sentiment throughout the country, covering 38 states.

Since the first of the two lieutenants is a close kinsman of Senator Taft and the other was the treasurer of his successful campaign for re-election last year, it is fair to assume that the report is highly favorable to the senator's chances. In fact, judging from some of the published excerpts, it would appear that he is practically nominated and elected already.

The Ohioan has said that he will need to study the report before making up his mind, but the biggest news that could come out of any announcement he makes would be that he has decided against becoming a candidate. Because of the surprise element, that would be regarded as more newsworthy than a statement he will run.

Is Candidate For the truth of it is, as every trained observer has known for some time, that Taft has been a candidate ever since he won re-election last year. All of his movements since then have been convincing on the score. He has taken on any number of speaking engagements carrying him from one end of the country to another.

Senator Taft has insisted all along that he is not a candidate, but admits being willing if the party wants him. In going about the country as much as he has during the past year, he claims to be merely exploring GOP sentiment. He is agreeable to making the sacrifice if party sentiment points in his direction.

The senator has made two similar sacrifices before. He was a candidate in 1940, when Wendell Willkie beat him out as a dark-horse contender. Again he was a candidate last time when Gov. Thomas E. Dewey came out on top. Now 62, he must feel that this is his last chance if he is ever to make the grade.

There is little doubt about what his final "decision" will be. It would be all but impossible to place a bet at almost any odds in Washington that he will not become a candidate. All of the fuss and feathers about the political survey may be marked down as window dressing.

Out in Front If, however, Taft makes his expected announcement at an early date—or any time before the first of the year, for that matter—it may have a certain significance. The Taft people have been worried about the Eisenhower draft movement ever since it got actively under way. As things stand today, it is beginning to look like General Eisenhower is the only man who could beat him for the prize. All hands concede that the senator is far out in front at the present time.

Ordinarily there would be no occasion for him to declare his candidacy before the state preferential primaries get under way next March and April. Taft's strategy in making his announcement this far ahead, therefore, would be to get the leap on the Eisenhower movement. It would place his henchmen in a position to work more effectively in his behalf in lining up convention support. There is that much advantage in being a declared candidate than one who is reluctant to state his position.

It will be interesting how far the Taft announcement is delayed. If it comes soon it will be evidence enough of the concern his leaders have over the Eisenhower boom. But whenever it comes, there is little need for guessing on what the decision will be. Everyone believes the decision has been made for some time.

LAGRANGE NEWS

Poppycock in Texas

Some housewives in Texas having been carrying on a running battle these last few months with the government over whether or not they should pay and deduct social security tax from their household employes.

The housewives, aided and abetted by Mr. Westbrook Pegler, the national columnist, have thumbed their noses at the government, saying it was an infringement of their freedom, and the worker's as well.

This is poppycock.

The vast majority of American workers know that social security is a good thing, and that no political party, not even the Republicans, would dare come out for its repeal.

It is a form of insurance paid by the week, which, when the worker gets too old to work, assures that he will not be completely without money.

The employer pays half and the worker half of the weekly deduction.

Nobody argues that life insurance is an infringement on his freedom, yet it is the same in principle as social security.

We doubt that this will strain the financial resources of the housewives and suspect that they are prompted more by selfish motives in holding out the money than they are for "freedom" or any other lofty motive.

Social security is here to stay.

And since domestic workers make very little as it is, they ought to be protected by the social security law.

If they are not, when they grow old they will be totally dependent on the public purse. Won't that cost us more than a few pennies every week now?

Carnivals and Clip Joints

In The Sylvania Telephone

We have no objection to carnivals. To the contrary, we rather enjoy them. But we do hate to see a carnival come into our community with a lot of "clip joints" and take good folding money away from some of the citizens who don't seem to be able to resist the glib tongues of the fast talkers who operate the games.

The fast-talker tells the sucker it's a very simple game. And to prove his good faith, usually offers the first game free. Of course the sucker wins this first game. Perhaps it's a couple of bucks. But the glib-tongued guy then really goes into his act and tells you this two-buck prize can be spiraled into a fabulous sum by just adding a couple of bucks from your pocket and playing again. Of course, the same procedure goes on until the customer sees he has been "took" and can do nothing but walk away, probably leaving a lot more money with the carnival guy than he can afford to squander on entertainment. And, we bet, the victim got very little pleasure out of the game.

We would never ask that carnivals be kept out of town. They are an American form of entertainment which a lot of people enjoy. We would like to see them operated on a little higher plane.

Too Much Bundle for Britain

"Atlanta-Bound Baby Bites Britisher's Beak."

The note bearing the couplet was lying on my desk. The text said further that the author was submitting the prize true story of the autumn travel season. The strong suspicion is, the document came from the pen of H. Parker Lowell, sometimes known as the poet-laureate of The Constitution copydesk, onetime horizontal guard on the Northwestern University football team. Here is the Lowell story of the babe that put the bite on Britain: A lusty lad 14 months old, who recently arrived in Atlanta from abroad to make his initial bow to his grandparents and other relatives, finished the last leg of the journey on a plane bearing the British delegation to a United Nations meeting from London to New York.

The young man, whose mother requests that he remain nameless for diplomatic reasons, was displaying travel fatigue in a highly voluble manner. A kindly member of the British delegation volunteered to help the harassed mother quiet her obstreperous offspring. She gratefully handed the squirming, squalling youngster to the benevolent Britisher.

But the baby's wails grew louder and he struggled in the arms of his would-be friend. Finally he grabbed a strand of the Britisher's locks in each hand, pulled his body upward and sank his tiny teeth into the nose of the startled emissary.

With what dignity and poise he could summon, the Britisher returned the resentful youngster to the mother with the remark: "Madam, I believe I have done all I can for you."

None other than Foreign Minister Herbert Morrison.

THOMAS L. STOKES

Taft Drive Hits Its Stride

WASHINGTON—The most significant development around here in national politics is the way the Taft-for-President campaign has got into high gear in the last few days—nine months ahead of the Republican convention next July. Seldom has there been so much open and public activity in behalf of a candidate for the nomination this far in advance as that for Taft. This explains, of course, the anxiety in the camp of those promoting General Eisenhower who are visibly chafing under the restraints imposed by the inability of the general, because of his European assignment, to become a candidate publicly himself. The pattern of the Ohio senator's campaign for the nomination is emerging clearly, step by step. Also being manifested are the character and role that he is to play and the arguments to be made as to why his political approach and philosophy are most applicable to the party's needs at this time.

Most recent in the course of well-arranged events was the report made to the senator by two of his managers, David Ingalls and Ben Tate, on a survey of sentiment among Republicans. They assured him that it showed he is the choice of the party for the nomination and would win if nominated, which came as no great surprise. The two men visited 38 states and covered 55,000 miles.

This report, for which the senator duly expressed his appreciation, opens the way for a public announcement of his decision as to his candidacy. This he promised in a reasonable time. When it comes it will be no great surprise either.

The Ingalls-Tate report followed along with another part of the planned program, which consists of periodic appeals from groups of Republican leaders, in one state after another, in behalf of the senator's candidacy.

According to plan, Wisconsin came through first a few days ago, followed by the senator's own state of Ohio, and then Tennessee simultaneously with release of the Ingalls-Tate report. The last is the home state of one of the senator's right-hand men for many years, Rep. Carroll Reece, formerly Republican national chairman. Reece has been one of the Taft leaders in the South and was active in lining up Southern delegations for the senator in his two previous tries for the nomination, as he is again in this current all-out venture.

The petitions from Republican groups in the three states were in the nature of requests for the senator to become a candidate for the nomination. After he announces himself formally, similar petitions from groups in other states are expected to come along pledging support, appropriately timed and spaced to simulate a crescendo of: "We want Taft."

As for the senator himself, his role will be a familiar one—the hard-hitting, straight-from-the-shoulder campaigner who appeals directly to the people, and to as many people as possible all over the country, as he did so successfully on a smaller scale in his 1950 campaign in Ohio. That was a sort of door-to-door, street-corner canvass, or as the Ingalls-Tate report put it:

"Everywhere we went we were told that the Republican Party needs to fight the 1952 campaign in an aggressive and forthright manner and that Bob Taft could and should follow the pattern he used in Ohio."

In short, the senator will become a sort of Republican Truman in manner and technique. Already he has been carrying on such a campaign in brief forays from the national capital on speech-making tours. This he will continue from now on periodically.

This is in contrast to the dulcet "unity" campaign that Governor Dewey conducted in 1948. There will be, too, a contrast with the two Dewey campaigns of 1944 and 1948 and that in 1940 by the late Wendell L. Willkie in that there will be a straight-out anti-New Deal, anti-Fair Deal attack, with no compromises. This is based on the theory, set forth in the Ingalls-Tate report, that this type of attack would bring to the polls many Republicans who, in the last three presidential elections, "have been lukewarm and indifferent because they did not feel that the candidate supported the principles of Republicanism."

A sobering thought it is to realize that no one else has just the gifts that I have, none the combined experiences.

God has a right to expect me to witness for Him peculiarly. My concern is not so much where I live or what I may acquire materially. It is whether or not I am making the most of the opportunities that God opens to me.

All life's relations have an eternal setting. The deep tides of the Spirit ebb or flow according to my faith.

First Blast Delayed in Mock A-War

LAS VEGAS, Nev., Oct. 14—(INS) — Informed sources said Sunday that the test period for the world's first atomic war games begins Monday, but that the actual touch-off of the atomic detonations may not occur for a couple of days.

A "high brass" spokesman in Las Vegas for the tests, who would not permit use of his name said:

"What happens is that the Atomic Energy Commission and the Army agree on the dates of a certain period in which the tests will be conducted.

"It seems fairly clear that Monday marks the start of the test period, but whether or not the first explosion will take place then is another matter."

It was pointed out that the weather is a controlling factor in the detonation of atomic weapons.

Meanwhile, the 1,200 men of a reinforced battalion of the 11th Airborne Division of Fort Campbell, Ky., were pronounced ready for the job.

Approximately 4,000 other troops at Camp Desert Rock have and will perform as service troops for the men actually involved in the tests, which reportedly will include the use of atomic artillery and so-called "baby atom bombs."

A press conference has been slated for Monday by Dr. Alvin C. Graves, test operation chief for the Atomic Energy Commission. It will be the first official press conference for the AEC since last year's atomic detonations.

MET STAR HITS HIGH NOTE

By BETTY WILKISON

Paula Lenchner thinks opera is becoming increasingly popular.

The young Met star will back up her opinion by singing Faust in English for the first time Thursday night when the Atlanta Opera Company presents Gounod's opera at the Tower Theater. The dark-haired young soprano will don blond locks to play Marguerite.

Obviously delighted by her appearance here, Miss Lenchner said Sunday, "It gives me a chance to sing Faust three times. Most of us have to go to Europe to get this kind of experience."

Vivacious and enthusiastic about music, Miss Lenchner admits that singing opera entails hard work. There's always a new opera to learn—she learned the English Faust in a week and one-half. And there is language study. Besides her native German, she speaks English, French and Italian. She continues to study ballet, and stage deportment.

She sang the part of Marguerite for the first time last year from the stage of the Metropolitan Opera House. Then, as understudy, she sang in French. Her English score for the Atlanta production was translated by Richard Valente, local producer and music director, and Inge Manski Lundeen, stage director.

Inge, who married Atlantan Wm. A. Lundeen two years ago, started her own career with the Met the same year Miss Lenchner began. John Gutmann did a special arrangement of "The Jewel Song" which Miss Lenchner will sing in the first scene.

the educaional problem raised when the National Assembly recently voted state aid to Catholic schools. The election results also showed that the Socialists were widely beaten and that other parties, the Popular Republicans, Independents and followers of De Gaulle, whose votes had won for Catholic aid, all gained in standings.

STANDINGS OF PARTIES

Figures on the 702 cantons were as follows:

Party	Elect.	Gns.	Losses	Stdgs.
Communists	42	7	90	— 83
Socialists	158	19	120	—101
Leftists	28	12	17	— 5
Radicals	161	62	53	+ 9
Pro-Republicans	53	30	10	+ 20
Independents	160	109	24	+ 85
Gaullists	95	80	5	+ 75

Taken together with last Sunday's statistics, this table showed that the Communists, who at the time of the liberation, had nearly 400 seats, were down to 115 at the present date. The Socialists, who in 1945 had over 800, were reduced to 556, whereas the Radicals and Independents, with 826 and 736, were heading back to the leading situation which they held before the war. The De Gaullists, who first entered competition in 1949, had garnered 331 seats and could claim a place in the leading groups as they can in the municipal councils and in national bodies.

U. S. Tehran Embassy Goes to West Germans

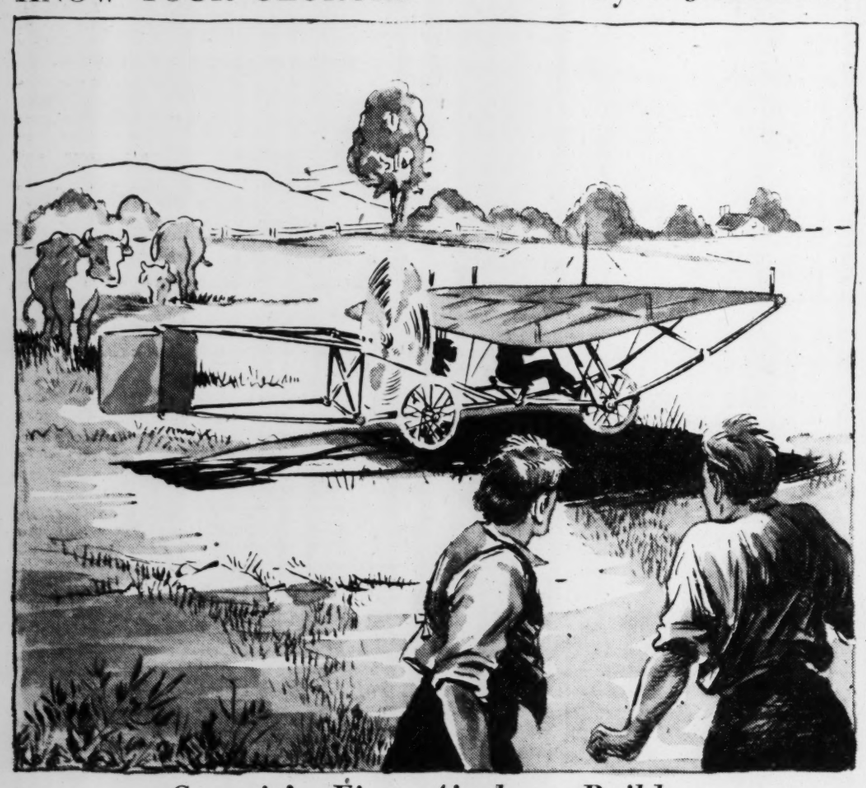

TEHRAN, Iran, Oct. 14—(AP). The United States has turned over to the Iranian government the German embassy building which has housed the American embassy since the end of the war.

The squat, grey building in the heart of Tehran had been rented by the Americans for $15,000 a year. It now will be held for the West Germans, who are expected to re-establish a mission here soon.

The U. S. embassy has moved into a new $3,000,000, two-story, brick building on Tehran's outskirts.

KNOW YOUR GEORGIA

by C. J. Holleran

Georgia's First Airplane Builder

When we think of building airplanes in Georgia, we visualize the Bell Bomber Plant that made the gigantic B-29's and the vast Lockheed project that will produce the new jet bombers. We consider the manufacture of planes as something relatively new in the state. However, it was 48 years ago, just a year after the Wright brothers made their historic flight, that the first gas-propelled plane was designed and built in Athens. Benjamin T. Epps, a garage owner in the Classic City, whose imagination was fired by the advent of "men on wings," determined to be one of America's first airmen. With his creation, shown above, he made his debut in the field. For years after that startling event, whenever aviation was mentioned, Ben Epps' genius and daring was fortmost in the conversation. He miraculously survived the pioneer days of flying, but was fatally injured on a take-off in 1937. His love of the airways was transmitted to his children. Ben, Jr., at 13, was America's youngest flyer. Two other sons, Charles and Harry, were Naval Air Corps pilots, and his daughters, Evelyn and Virginia, were flying instructors. Ben Epps Field, the Athens airport, is named in honor of the man who learned to fly, when there were no airports, by hops from one Georgia cow pasture to another. Dr. William Tate, writing of Epps in "Air Scoop," says "To Ben Epps and a handful of others who believed in the future of aviation, America owes its very existence today." It was Ben Epps who piloted the ship from which Francis Price, of the Constitution, made the first air photographs in Georgia.

What dollars go back to Main Street twice?

Life Insurance dollars— invested in every town—will return again as payments on policies

Until you need them as family money, your life insurance dollars are used as investment money—safely put to work to earn what they can for policyholders, and so reduce the cost of your protection.

The farm, the factory, the store, railroads, power companies, homes, local and Federal government activities—all benefit from dollars you provide through your life insurance. In fact, from coast to coast these life insurance dollars provide capital every Main Street needs to grow and prosper.

And then when these dollars are paid to you or your family, they come back to Main Street once again—as family money used to buy food and clothing, to pay for rent and schooling, and help meet many another need.

America's 83 million policyholders, in providing for their families and themselves through life insurance, are also making America a better place to work in and to live in. And their healthy habit of thrift is one of the nation's strongest bulwarks against inflation.

"Better than ever" movies, the most impressive array of concert artists, bigger cabaret floor shows, the reopening of the Penthouse Theater — the nation's original arena showcase —circuses, ice shows and vaudeville attractions will highlight the glittering season.

Patrice Munsel

Audience reaction to the splendid season has been reflected in the liberal spending for tickets to concerts. Both the Atlanta Symphony and the Atlanta Music Club have reported "heavy buying of expensive seats." The Symphony, with 11 concerts and its strongest line-up of guest stars, including Patrice Munsel, will begin its sale of single concert seats Monday. The Music Club, with eight series concerts on tap, has reported a "heavy sale."

Motion picture theaters, emerging from the postwar box office dolrdums, have reported "record" business" during the past two months and movie showmen here expect many new records to be established when such movies as "Streetcar Named Desire," "Quo Vadis," "Detective Story," "Along The Wide Missouri," "The Desert Fox," "An American In Paris" are shown during the next 30 to 45 days.

The industry generally is optimistic about what it calls "the greatest line-up of movies in more than 10 years" and expects at least 15 of these movies, including "A Place In the Sun" and "David and Bathsheba" to be in the Academy Award derby.

PENTHOUSE REOPENS

Legitimate theater, long a favorite pastime with Atlantans, will have a "showcase" when the Penhouse Theater reopens in November. Although final plans are not complete for its debut, this arena theater will again be located in the beautiful Rainbow Roof of the Dinkler Ansley Hotel. Stars of the screen and stage will appear in dramas and comedies there.

Other legitimate theater attractions will be presented at the Tower Theater, now under lease to the Atlanta Opera Company, which plans to present a series of operas on the spacious Tower stage this Fall and Winter.

In the variety field the Shrine Circus and the Holiday on Ice, skating extravaganza, head the list.

The Shrine Circus will open Nov. 2 for a 10-day engagement at the Municipal Auditorium. Holiday on Ice, the lavish ice show which makes an annual visit, will appear in February.

AUDITORIUM ATTRACTIONS

Special events at the Auditorium will include: Spike Jones and his City Slickers, Oct. 21; Jazz at the Philharmonic, Oct. 24, and Duke Ellington and Nat "King" Cole, Oct. 26.

Cabarets here already have begun to unfold their plans for a bigger entertainment season with both the Henry Grady and the Biltmore presenting big, costly "production" type floor shows. The Henry Grady launched its new season with Johnny Pineapple's Hawaiian ensemble. The Biltmore Empire Room reopened with a lavish new ice show, one of the most unusual night club presentations ever seen here. Both the Paradise Room and the Empire Room plan to continue this policy of "big shows" throughout the cold months.

Record throngs will view the 11 concerts to be presented by the Atlanta Symphony starting Oct. 23 with lovely Miss Munsel, glamorous star of the Met, singing arias from Lucia, Barber of Seville, Romeo and Juliet and Don Giovanni. Thomas Brockman, young American pianist, will play Rachmaninoff's Concerto No. 3 when he performs with the orchestra Oct. 30. Isaac Stern will be the Symphony's next guest, appearing Nov. 13.

The highlight of the entire series will be the first Atlanta performance of "The Messiah," by Handel. This is scheduled for Dec. 4. Noted artists will join the orchestra for this impressive program. Benny Goodman, Leonard Warren, Ralph Lawton, Robert Casadesus, Robert Harrison will be other guest soloists.

MUSIC CLUB SERIES

The Music Club series is "loaded" with big names of the concert world. Jascha Heifetz, one of the world's outoutstanding violinists, opens the series Tuesday with a recital at the Municipal Auditorium. The following week "Die Fledermaus" will be given, complete with ballet, chorus and orchestra.

Jascha Heifetz

Headlining the entire music and concert series will be the second appearance of the Saddler Wells Theater Ballet, which is scheduled to return Feb. 2. The company will present "Coppelia," a three-act classic ballet which had its Saddler Wells premiere in London recently.

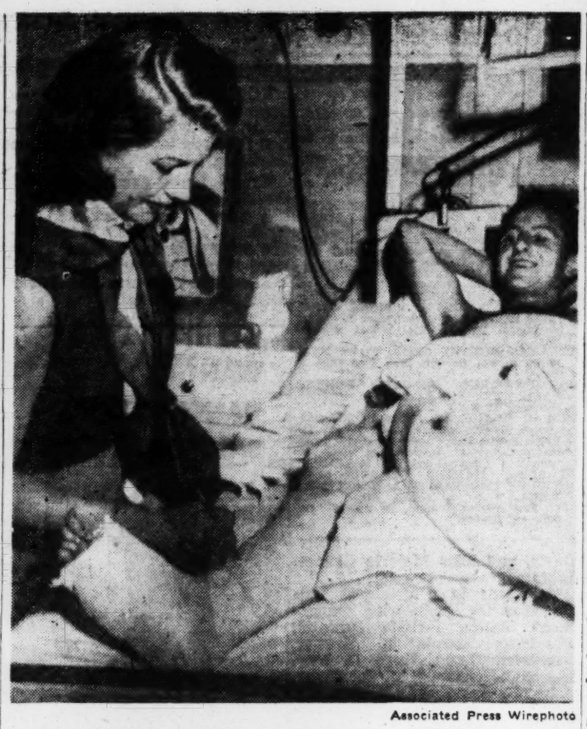

Ferrucio Tagliavini, the Pittsburgh Symphony Orchestra and Vladimir Horowitz will be among the other Music Club series highlights.

The Atlanta Opera Company will open its 1951-52 season with Gounod's "Faust" Oct. 18-20 at the Tower Theater. "Pagliacci" and "Down in the Valley" will be presented Nov. 30 and Dec. 1. "La Traviata" will be presented Jan. 24, 25, 26 and "Madame Butterfly," March 5, 6, 7. "Giants in the Earth" will conclude the series May 15, 16, 17.

The Music Club will present four concerts by imported artists, the Salon Series of six programs, the Opera and Instrumental Workshops and the annual Spring Festival. Artists for the four big programs are Solomon, English pianist; the Paganini String Quartet, the Norwegian Choir, and Nikolaidi, Greek contralto.

Two programs will be given by the Decatur Junior Service League. Roberta Peters, one of last season's Met stars here, will be presented Oct. 17, and Cornelia Otis Skinner will be presented Nov. 26.

The Atlanta Dance Theater will stage four new ballets, including "Rhapsody in Blue," in its two-day season Feb. 29 and March 1, 1952. Other works include "A Midsummer Night's Dream," "Punch and Judy," and "The Fantastic Toyshop." Pittman Corry and Karen Conrad direct the theater.

Furman BISHER

Sports Editor, The Constitution

Three Cheers for Upset U.

Oh, Saturday, you devilishly wicked day. You're as lovely and as coy as a bride in the morning, but by nightfall you've turned into a witch with punctuated teeth and a shrew's tongue. You live and flourish on consternation and sorrow generated by the most horrible bludgeon known—the upset.

There is cause this morbid Monday to stop and investigate the Stygian darkness into which we have been plunged. The only light by which we'll find our way is the glow of sanity given off by Georgia Tech's ardent loyalty to form. The Yellow Jackets did in Hadacol U. from Baton Rouge as prescribed by the book.

BISHER

But so little of the other football horses ran the race right. It left the group of professional selectors in such a groggy state, including the ragged one just to the left, that I feel moved to get down to the cold business of what went into said selections. It invariably follows that a man will more often pick the winners truer outside his own precinct than at home. He feels that he knows so much about the frame of mind and the critical reactions of the men close at hand that he will often as not outsmart himself.

This has been true in my case this fall, and you'll see how it works as we go into some of the reasoning that misfired:

GEORGIA over MARYLAND—Here I allowed my heart to run away with my head. I knew that Georgia was offensively not a sound team. Line blocking has been only a rumor. The halfbacks, without proper escort, have come up shockingly short. With only a fig leaf for protection, Bratkowski has still been a brave boy, but he has had no running game to increase the effectiveness of his strikes. Still, I had been so impressed by Georgia's heart at Mississippi State that I had felt there was enough left to pierce a Maryland team whose heart has often not belonged to Daddy Tatum.

FLORIDA over AUBURN—No complete devastation here, for I felt this near to an even match after Florida's long trip to California last week. But Auburn's record was poor against passes. Florida, with Haywood Sullivan, could pass with the best, and, with Floyd Huggins, Billy Reddell and Sam Oosterhoudt, should be able to move on foot. But it hasn't. The offensive line hasn't done its job nearly as well as the defensive, which was supposed to have been the Gators' weakest feature. The Auburns, who have been taught to believe in themselves, haven't turned down an opportunity yet.

The General Is Under Fire

OLE MISS over VANDERBILT—I had been led to believe that (1) Ole Miss had put a handle on the ball and (2) had come up with a group of agile young critters who could defend against passes. These turned out to be vicious lies. Saturday was "Be Kind to Vanderbilt Day" in Oxford, and the fumble was the most commonly employed charity. There isn't too much any pass defense can do against Bill Wade these days, it seems. He is making it mighty hard on the supporters for Babe Parilli for All-SEC. Who would ever have thought that Vandy would be 3-1 and Kentucky 2-3 at this stage? "Not I," said the Little Red Hen.

MISS. STATE over KENTUCKY—This was just one of those wild flyers a fellow will take. I took this one because Slick Morton sold me a bill of goods with his defense against Georgia Saturday before. This was before I realized that it wasn't all State's defense, but a lot that Georgia's offense didn't have. I notice that the fussy Wildcats were wise enough first to remove Frank Branch, a 125-pound bully, from the State batting order before getting too testy. Without him, offensive school is out for Prof. Morton's scholars.

TENNESSEE over CHATTANOOGA—This is liable to cost Genrul Kneeland his job. Chattanooga scored twice on the Vols, and this is the equivalent of an upset in Knoxville.

From Sullen To Rebellious

ALABAMA over VILLANOVA—There are grounds for a suit in the house-wrecking job Villanova pulled on Alabama Friday night. There are also grounds for a far better football record at Tuscaloosa. The athletes are there. Physically and talent-wise, they are equipped to be as good as anybody in the league, save possibly Tennessee. There have been rumors of players quitting the squad, including Trojan horse Bobby Marlow, and other stories of dissension that accompany such situations. There is still time for the traditional November comeback, but Alabama's losing my business. From now on, I'm trading in Auburn securities.

YALE over COLUMBIA—Herman Hickman is a little more concerned about this one than I am. He's going to have to be awful funny on television to make his sullen alumni laugh. He was the fellow, you know, who said, "A coach ought to lose enough just to keep the alumni sullen, but not rebellious." Even with Peahead (Lovable) Walker in New Haven, there isn't enough good humor to keep the sullen from turning rebellious much longer.

WAKE FOREST over WILLIAM & MARY—This would never have happened if Walker had stayed put. Wake Forest came equipped with some of the best talent in the Southern Conference this year. The Deacons have tremendous running, good passing and a line that would make Georgia a great team. William & Mary, even with Rube McCray and without an administration scandal, was not supposed to do this.

NOTRE DAME over SOUTHERN METHODIST—Who wouldn't have stayed with the Irish? And who would have believed that Fred Benners could stand back there and throw strikes all day? I thought Tech and Ohio State had convinced the Mustangs that this wasn't their year. First place, the SMU line wasn't supposed to be able to give Benners that kind of protection. But in these denominational tempests, most any sort of miracle can happen.

These are just a few of the disturbing reversals. Enough of this sort of thing could turn a publisher from sullen to rebellious. Thank heaven The Constitution has no alumni association. I've got no alibi. The other selectors just got more material to work with.

Louis Works Hard For Marciano

POMPTON LAKES, N. J., Oct. 14—(AP)—Joe Louis starting his last week of his training here, worked Sunday with three sparring partners, all imitating the style of Rocky Marciano who Joe faces in Madison Square Garden Oct. 26.

Fall Kills Vinson

CHESTER, Pa., Oct. 14—(AP)—Ernest Vinson, who played major league baseball with two clubs at the turn of the century, died Saturday of injuries he had received when he fell from the second floor of a building. Vinson was employed as a window washer. The Dover, Del., native played in the outfield for the Cleveland Indians and the Chicago White Sox from 1904 through 1906.

'HE REMINDS ME OF GENE'

Hardeman and McEver—Two of Kind, Says Dodd

By FURMAN BISHER

Laughing boy Robert Lee Dodd, the South's good humor man, drew back Sunday afternoon and let Leon Hardeman have the soundest wallop he could deliver across the back. In honor of the kid from Lafayette and his Saturday performance in 25-7 victory over Louisiana State, the Georgia Tech coach said:

"He reminds me of Gene McEver."

Greater praise hath no Tennessee man for another football back. McEver stands as the greatest runner that ever wore the Orange and White. Bob Neyland considers him the greatest player he ever coached. Dodd considers him and Charley Trippi the two greatest backs he ever saw, and Dodd worked in the same Tennessee backfield with McEver as they both made All-America around 1930.

"Mac was heavier than Leon, but they're both built the same way—low and just a little paddle-footed and broad, the kind of fellow it's hard to bring down."

Already Georgia Tech people like to compare Hardeman with Stumpy Thomason, their own ace of the great 1928 Rose Bowl team. This installs the 5-6, 180-pound halfback inside the lobby of immortality with two more years to work out a front-row seat.

He demonstrated as well as he can how difficult it is to knock him off his feet and he bucked and butted and exploded for 25 yards and Tech's first touchdown. This was perhaps the most vital Tech play of the day, for the Yellow Jackets were in an early state of emergency, a gift touchdown behind and the pressure on them, the 14-point favorites. Hardeman's haul was the signal that the Tigers could be had.

Before the day was over, Tech had actually caged the Tigers with comparative sort of ease. Coming back hadn't been nearly as arduous as it had seemed to be. Dodd was even given the opportunity to test some of his rookies before the final returns were in.

One young citizen emerged the day's valedictorian. Larry Ruffin, the West Point freshman, who a year ago was playing on a 20-man Class B high school squad, ran himself into heavier employment when he broke out on a 56-yard run late in the game.

"We think Ruffin is a fine runner," Dodd said. "The same type as Hardeman. He could have gone all the way, but he'd been twisting and turning and fighting his way through tacklers and was out of breath. I wouldn't be surprised if he isn't playing a lot of ball by November. He's looked good in scrimmage against the varsity before, but we never had a chance to work him in a game."

It was a great debut for the kid who wasn't listed in the program.

There were cheers for Tech's defensive backs, especially Lawton Grant. Here was a boy who in 1947 was Atlanta's outstanding prep star at Brown High School. At Tech, he has been a forgotten man, lost in the oblivion of B-team play. A senior now, he did a splendid job as the replacement for injured Charley Brannon.

Chappell Rhino's boot got the Jackets behind 0-7 eightball as he fumbled a punt on his own four. But he came back and did the job, though he is not yet a well boy. He still limps on his ex-broken ankle.

There was Darrell Crawford, of course. The guy was only sensational. Improvement is obvious, but no one can know what a quarterback he might have been last year with a '51 model line in front of him, and without the shoulder separation that felled him.

The defensive gents were as per custom high class. Ray Beck has only to be Ray Beck the rest of the year to become Tech's first All-American guard since Bill Healey. George Morris was the outstanding linebacker of the day until he went down with a hip injury. He may miss the Auburn game.

It is the same kind of a slow-healing wound that downed Hardeman in the Florida game and kept him from playing against Kentucky. Fact is, this was Hardeman's first play of any length since the SMU opener. Medical authority says he isn't well yet.

LSU dissents. Gus Tinsley thought he was right hearty Saturday p. m.

PART OF SUG'S STRATEGY

Creel's Block Planned Two Weeks in Advance

By JESSE OUTLAR

Sug Jordan's daring insertion of Jackie Creel, 137-pound freshman halfback, as a defensive left end paid off in a blocked punt that set up Auburn's winning touchdown in a 14-13 shocker over Florida Saturday at Cliff Hare Stadium.

With only four minutes remaining and Auburn trailing, 13-7, it looked like a desperation move by a frustrated coach. On the contrary, it was carefully planned strategy, something Jordan and his staff had been mulling over for the past two weeks.

When Georgia Tech wrecked Florida, 27-0, in Gainesville, alert Auburn scouts spotted a weak spot in the right side of the Gator line. Tech tackle Bob Sherman did the same and sifted through to block a kick.

Jordan, a keen analyst who considers all the angles, listened to the scout report. He noted Sherman was light and unusually fast for a tackle.

"I thought the same thing might work for Auburn under the right circumstances," Jordan said Sunday. "However, we didn't figure any of our tackles could get through the gap. I thought of Creel, light and fast.

"It was a perfect spot for us to test the idea in the fourth quarter Saturday. Florida had to punt on fourth down and Creel went in. I doubt if they detected that he wasn't one of our ends. He darted past the blockers, made the all important block and when tackle Bill Turnbeaugh recovered on the Gator 29, we had our chance.

"So, I guess you'll have to credit Georgia Tech with an assist in our victory. But, we won't get any help from them at Grant Field Saturday.

"Backfield Coach Charlie Waller, who scouted Tech against Kentucky and LSU, agrees with everyone else that the Jackets are terrific. We are coming up there, dig our trenches and see what happens.

"You know I never dreamed Auburn would be playing Tech for the conference lead, Oct. 20, not to mention that both teams are unbeaten. I doubt if Bobby Dodd did either," Sug continued with a chuckle.

Jordan was high in his praise of his entire squad for their great performance against Florida. He rated four interceptions of Haywood Sullivan passes as a vital factor in the victory. Bill McMurray stabbed two, Vince Dooley and Bobby Duke one each.

Quarterback Allan Parks, halfback Bobby Golden, recovered from ulcers; fullback Homer Williams, freshman end Jimmy Long, end Lee Hayley and freshman halfback Bobby Freeman were cited for their Gator work by Jordan.

The Plainsmen came out of the rugged fray in good condition. Only tackle Joe Tiburzi was injured, and Sug thinks he'll be back for Tech. Regular right end Dave Ridgway, who missed the last two games, gets back in silks for the Jackets along with ailing halfback Billy Conn.

When Hayley turned in his circus catch for the deciding touchdown, it recalled a similar incident to Jordan.

"Last year in the Georgia-Auburn game, I saw Hayley miss a pass on the same play, when I was on the other side of the fence. Auburn kicked a field goal, consequently losing 12-10. I don't know why I thought about it Saturday," Jordan continued, "but when Parks threw the ball, it struck like lightning. 'You missed one for me, Lee; please grab this one.' He did."

Radio, TV Heads Rap Baseball

WASHINGTON, Oct. 14—(INS). The fast-breaking curves of the radio and television industry Sunday threatened to strike out organized baseball's effort to avoid anti-trust law controls.

Several bills are now before Congress to exempt the national pastime from the restrictions of ordinary business as far as the monopoly laws are concerned. The bills are being considered by a house subcommittee.

Rep. Hillings, Rep., Calif., said a top radio and TV official told him his network would lose some 30 million dollars if baseball can knock the anti-trust laws out of the box. Such a legislative change, the official said, would allow club owners to kill off broadcasting and telecasting of games at their option.

Both Hillings and Rep. Keating Republican, N. Y., assured the radio industry that pending legislation would be altered to protect its interests.

Hearings on the diamond legislation re-open Monday with Washington Senators owner Clark Griffith the first witness. The committee heard witnesses for two weeks in August and will continue hearings for two weeks more.

Others scheduled to appear are Commissioner Ford Frick, Chicago Cub Owner Phil Wrigley, Jr., Pittsburgh owner Branch Rickey, Pewee Reese of the Brooklyn Dodgers, Freddie Hutchinson of the Detroit Tigers, several baseball writers and principals of the jump to the Mexican League several years ago.

IN WAKE OF MARYLAND

Bulldogs Lose More Linemen

By GENE ASHER
Constitution Sports Writer

ATHENS, Oct. 14—Georgia Coach Wallace Butts was extremely worried Sunday about facing LSU's Bengal Tigers Saturday night without two and probably four of his most consistent regulars.

Definitely sidelined is double-duty guard Jeff Burgamy and offensive end Art DeCarlo. And leading pass-receiver Harry Babcock and ox-built fullback Dick Raber are on the doubtful list.

Burgamy is out indefinitely with a charleyhorse and DeCarlo, suffering with a hurt ankle, is not expected back for two weeks.

Butts plans to use Dexter Poss on both offense and defense until left end DeCarlo recovers.

He hasn't decided who will start if right end Babcock isn't ready but it will probably be either Ed Filipovits or Atlanta's Earl Gunn.

Butts hopes to receive help from the freshmen team, which trounced Auburn's frosh, 39-0. He was particularly pleased with the performances of freshmen Charles Madison, who gained 130 yards in 13 carries; James Campagna, who averaged 12.6 yards per try, and Bobby Dellinger, who carried seven times for 50 yards.

Commenting on Georgia's 43-7 lost to Maryland, Butts said, "They (Maryland) were alert. They took advantage of every mistake we made and perhaps could have beaten any team in the nation last Saturday night."

"We knew what to expect as far as personnel was concerned, but we also realized that their first two backfields were better than anything we have."

Butts praised the Terps' downfield blocking as "exceptionally good" and added that every Maryland back ran with determination. He commended line play of all-America guard Bob Ward and Dick "Little Mo" Modzelewski and the running of brother Ed "Big Mo" Modzelewski and Chester Hanulak, and the passing of Jack Scarbath.

But as far as the game's most outstanding player, Butts selected his own standout, Babcock. "Harry did a terrific job," Butts said. "He had been ailing all

BULLDOGS' BRATKOWSKI TIES CONERLY'S SEC PASS MARK

Zeke Bratkowski, Georgia's sensational sophomore quarterback, moved into the Southeastern Conference record book and bettered another of his own University marks against Maryland last Saturday night.

The Bulldog standout completed 20 passes to tie the SEC completion record of Chuck Conerly, formerly of Ole Miss, established in 1947 against Chattanooga.

Bratkowski gained 220 yards passing to smash his own University record of single-game aerial yardage. He had set a new mark with 215 yards against North Carolina.

Bratkowski also moved ahead of the SEC record of 147.9 passing yards per game made by Kentucky's Babe Parilli last year. Zeke's current average is 163.2.

Vols, Tech, Auburn Ride High In SEC

Plainsmen, Jackets Roll Along, Upset Dopesters

By STERLING SLAPPEY
Associated Press Sports Writer

Southeastern Conference football—producer of only seven unbeaten teams since 1933—took a toll of two unbeatens Saturday and at least one more will fall this week.

Only three perfect record teams remain after four weeks of football and two of them—Georgia Tech and Auburn—meet in Atlanta Saturday. The third, Tennessee, plays in Birmingham against Alabama.

The meeting of Auburn and Tech as unbeaten teams doubtless is one of the strangest things to happin jn the Southeastern since World War II.

Auburn Coach Ralph Jordan sent in 137-pound Jackie Creel late Saturday against Florida with instructions to move in fast on the Florida punter and block a kick. Creel did his work and Bill Turnbeaugh fell on the loose ball. Auburn took over and scored for an astonishing 14-13 victory.

The victory, along with a 24-14 count over Vanderbilt and a 30-14 over Wofford, gave Auburn an unbeaten streak.

Tech whipped another unbeaten last week. The only touchdown LSU managed in the 25-7 game came after a Tech punt fumble inside Tech's five-yard line. Tech previously whipped SMU 21-7, Florida, 27-0, and Kentucky, 13-7.

Before the season Auburn was picked to lose to both Vandy and Florida and Tech was supposed to lose at least two of its first four games. Auburn rated 12th in the 12-team Southeastern and Tech was in a tie with LSU for fifth.

Big Tennessee bullied little Chattanooga with 42 points but little Chattanooga got some revenge by scoring 13 points—the only 13 scored against Tennessee all season.

With Tech and Auburn the major surprises and Tennessee running right on the unbeaten course prescribed before the season, Alabama definitely is out of gear. The Tide lost its third in a row Friday night, 41-18, to Villanova. The defeat was the most embarrassing for Alabama in possibly 40 years.

This week Kentucky has a chance at getting the SEC even with Villanova. The Wildcats, who walloped Mississippi State, 27-0, last week, take on the Easterners Saturday night in Lexington.

Vandy finished off Mississippi's unbeaten record 34-20 and meets Florida Saturday afternoon in Gainesville. Final Southeastern games will be between Tulane and Mississippi Saturday in Oxford and LSU and Georgia Saturday night in Athens.

Tulane gave Holy Cross its first loss last week, 20-14. Georgia gave up the most points since 1944 in losing, 43-7, to Maryland.

Mississippi State has a week of rest.

RED SAILS IN THE SUNSET?

Bama Grads Pick Up Chant, What's Wrong?

By EDWIN POPE

On the theory that they have been reasonably long-suffering, Alabama old grads finally have raised the chant that is verbal anathema to every head football coach: "What's wrong?"

Even after stumbling, 41-18, to Villanova Friday night, and pointing the thrice-beaten Elephants' trunk in the general direction of the worst season in Tide history, chief Harold (Red) Drew had some answers. Whether the likable carrot-top's replies are solid enough to stand off the wolves that perennially gather at his doorstep is any alumnus' guess.

Red Drew

With Tennessee scheduled this week, Tide people want to know (1) why the team lacks even normal aggressiveness, (2) why Bobby Marlow, Dixie's best runner, lost his mail-carriers' license and (3) why a line that was considered heeled well enough is making like a doormat.

Drew admits bafflement on count one. "Pep and determination are things you can't put your finger on," he says, "and I did think we came back right well against Villanova in the second half." Ken McAfee scored on 67 and 75-yard pass plays from Clell Hobson for Bama's fourth-quarter charge.

But Drew has a comeback for No. 2:

"Marlow had appendicitis symptoms early in practice schedule and that hurt his conditioning routine. Then he sprained a wrist against LSU and that still bothers him. And to add to that we are having to use him to back up the line until we can bring along someone to do the job. In short, Marlow has been handicapped getting in shape and he just is not able to carry a full offensive and defensive load."

Whether Marlow is needed more on offense or on defense is a moot point with Alabama grumblers. The rock-jawed junior averaged 7.4 yards on per than 100 rushes in 1950. But he carried the ball only six times against Villanova. He scored one touchdown to follow his two against Vanderbilt the week before. All told this season, he has run the ball 34 times. Alabama, without any other outstanding runner and little to offer in the way of a pass attack crippled by the graduation of Ed Salem, Butch Avinger and Al Lary, actually does not offer a single really dangerous offender.

Drew's answer to question 3:

"We lost Herb Hannah at tackle and Mike Mizerany and Elliott Speed at guards and several fine centers. You just don't replace men like that right off the bat. Our line needs time."

There isn't much of a rebuttal to Drew's argument on the third point, and he might get an even break before an arbitration board on the second. But it is the first factor that is the biggest trouble.

"I wasn't particularly stunned by Villanova," he said. "I thought it was our best game. If we had played that well against Vandy, we would have won."

Villanova rushed for 421 yards and if that is not a record against an SEC team, it certainly must represent new depths for Alabama. Ben Addiego, Dick Bedesem and Bob Haner fractured the Bama midline at will; only man the big Mainliner forwards couldn't move was sophomore center Ralph Carrigan.

That Villanova is a national power, Alabama people concede. But when the weekend closed shop in sleepy Tuscaloosa, the inhabitants dozed off still wondering: "What's wrong?"

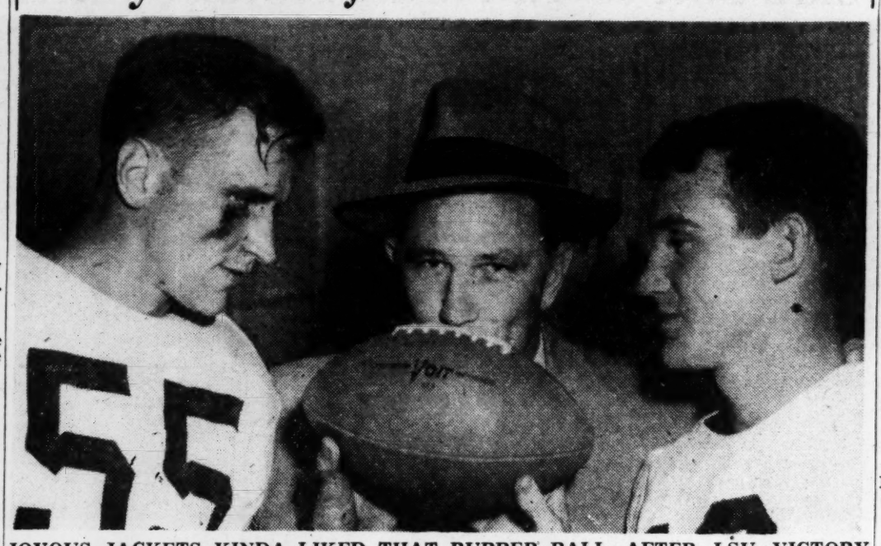

And terrible Tennessee draws nearer.

80,000 Look On As Soviet Teams Argue Decision

MOSCOW, Oct. 14—(AP)—The Soviet army soccer football club won the Russian championship with a 2-1 victory over the Kalinin City team Sunday, but the losers officially protested a referee's decision disallowing a goal which would have tied the score.

A capacity crowd of 80,000 at Dynamo Stadium booed referee Latyshev continuously after his ruling that the ball was out of play when the Kalinin goal was kicked. Members of both teams stormed about the official after his ruling until he ordered them to resume play.

Zaharias Clips Hanson For Women's Texas Open

FORT WORTH, Tex., Oct. 14—(UP)—Babe Didrikson Zaharias won her fourth women's Texas Open Golf title at River Crest Country Club Sunday with an 8 and 7 victory over defending champion Beverly Hanson of Indio, Calif.

Mrs. Zaharias became the second person to win the tourney four times. The Babe took previous Texas Open titles in 1940, 1945 and 1946.

The finals match was evenly played through the first 18 holes, and turned with Mrs. Zaharias five under par and one-up on the defending champion.

But on the second 18, Miss Hanson blew up. She shot a 43 on the first nine of the afternoon round.

The match ended on the 29th hole which was halved with Mrs. Zaharias eight up.

week with a leg injury but gave his top performance."

Butts listed five breaks which led to Maryland touchdowns and enabled the Terps to win so easily.

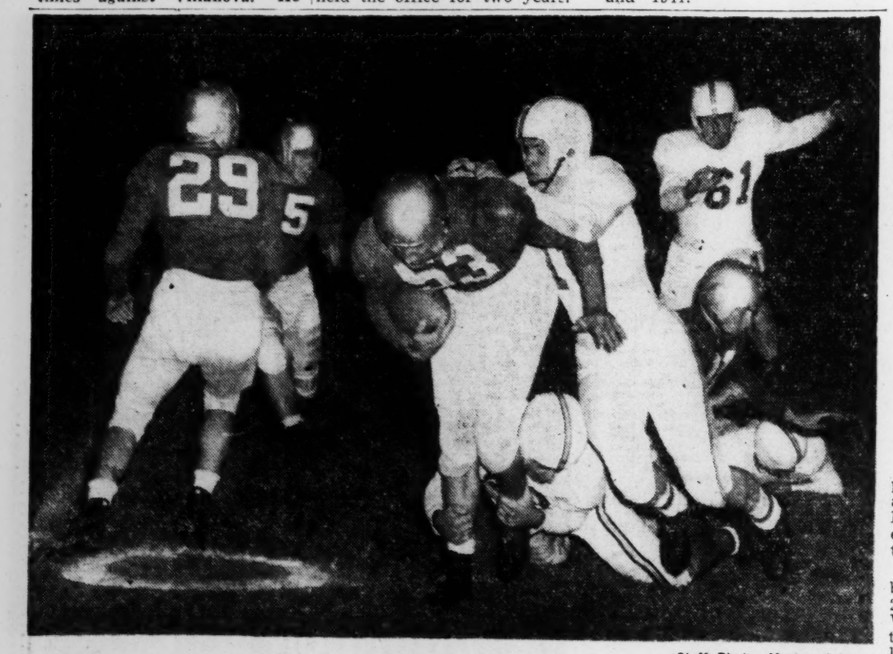

1. "Following Maryland's field goal, the Terps recovered a fumble on the kickoff." Mal Cook dropped a Lauren Hargrove hand-off and "Little Mo" fell on it at Georgia's 22. Three plays later "Big Mo" scored.

2. "After a punt exchange, we marched to Maryland's 35. It was fourth down and we needed six yards. We made only five of them, Maryland took over and went all the way." Georgia went to Maryland's 35 and on fourth down, a Zeke Bratkowski to Babcock screen pass was a yard short of a first down. Scarbath runs and passes moved it from Maryland's 27 to Georgia's 13, from where Ralph Felton raced over. Maryland led, 17-7 at halftime.

3. "We were way behind now and had to open up. Early in the third period we lost the ball on a pass interception deep in our own territory." On the third play after the second-half kickoff, Bernie Faloney grabbed a Bratkowski pass at Georgia's 25. The Terps surged to the two and after being held for three downs Scarbath scored.

4. "Near the end of the third period, we were rolling again but another fumble cost us." Hargrove lost the ball at Maryland's 49, and on first down, Hanulak went off tackle for 51 yards.

5. "Again we tried to come back and drove inside Maryland's 20 only to lose the ball on downs." With Bratkowski passes leading the way, Georgia went to Maryland's 14 where four throws failed. The Terps took over and Ed Fullerton raced 86 yards to paydirt for the final touchdown.

Stranahan Wins Willard

FORT SMITH, Ark., Oct. 14—(AP)—Frank Stranahan, Toledo link wizard, won the 20th annual Willard Memorial Golf tournament here Sunday, defeating George Bigham, an Oklahoma A. & M. college student.

Stranahan won the 36-hole match, 5 and 3, after 32 holes of play.

It was his third time to win the championship, the only player to do so. He won the 1947 and 1948 matches and didn't compete again until this year.

Mrs. W. E. Hoge of Druid Hills became the 1951 Atlanta Women's Golf Association-Maier and Berkele handicap tournament champion when she defeated Rosalie Mayer of East Lake, 5 and 4, at Capital City Country Club Saturday.

Other flight winners: First—Mrs. Dale Andrews beat Mrs. Guy Carpenter, 19 holes. Second flight—Mrs. R. H. Dawkins beat Mrs. Asa Candler, Jr., 2-up. Losers bracket—Mrs. C. D. Fields, with net 80.

National Spotlight Shines On 15 Teams

Spartans, Aggies, Bears Bid For Places In Sun

By WILL GRIMSLEY

NEW YORK, Oct. 14—(AP)—It's been a turbulent football season so far, with upsets plentiful, but if you rummage through the debris you can find 15 teams still strongly in the running for national honors.

This imposing lineup may come in for some revision a week hence since many of the powers have stout foes awaiting them Saturday.

Michigan State, No. 1 in the Associated Press poll, journeys to State College, Pa., to meet Penn State, 15-7 winner over Nebraska last weekend.

At the same time, power-packed California, which has 38 straight regular season victories, is host to Southern California at Berkeley in a game that will go far toward deciding the Pacific Coast Conference championship. Southern Cal, loser only to Camp Pendleton, beat Oregon State Saturday, 16-14.

Tennessee, No. 3 nationally, takes on traditionally tough Alabama in their annual bone-crushing melee and the fact Alabama has lost three games will make the Crimson Tide only that much more cantankerous.

Other top 10 teams, in order of their ranking, play like this:

Texas A&M vs. Texas Christion, Notre Dame vs. Pittsburgh, Texas vs. Arkansas, Illinois vs. Washington, Georgia Tech vs. Auburn, Ohio State vs. Indiana and Maryland vs. North Carolina.

The Southwest flexed its muscles more than the other sections Saturday, winning three major intersectional games.

The outstanding victory was that scored by twice-beaten Southern Methodist over a revitalized Notre Dame team that had been figured ready to reclaim its old place of national dominance. SMU's Fred Benners, completing 22 passes, pitched the Fighting Irish dizzy at South Bend and the Mustangs romped, 27-20.

Texas won its fourth straight game by upending Oklahoma, the 1950 national champion, 9-7, and Rice smashed Navy in a night game at Houston, 21-14.

Notre Dame, ranked fifth in last week's Associated Press poll, was one of two of the 10 top-ranking elevens to fall upon bad times. Ohio State, No. 9, found a stone wall in Wisconsin's line and was held to a 6-6 tie.

Top-ranking Michigan State had a severe fright at East Lansing where an aroused Marquette team took a 14-6 lead into the final minutes. The Spartans rallied for two touchdowns in the final seven minutes.

The California Bears continued their mighty offensive to beat Washington, 42-35. Pappy Waldorf's athletes, unbeaten in regular season play in the last four years, have rolled up at least 34 points a game against Santa Clara, Pennsylvania, Minnesota and now Washington.

Elk Golfers Qualify for SE Tourney

The third annual Southeastern Elks' golf tournament will open Monday at Meadowbrooks Country Club with 18 holes of qualifying.

Tournament officials hope most of the local entries will find time to qualify on opening day in order to keep the course open for out-of-town entries Tuesday.

First round in the championship proper is set for Wednesday. The tournament runs through Saturday.

Louis Hill of Atlanta Lodge 78, who won the inaugural event in 1949, and defending champion Irby Broadwater of Decatur Lodge, will be among the favorites again.

Bristol, Va., is sending a strong crew down in hopes of capturing the team title. Hollywood, Fla., and Americus, Ga., are other lodges with strong entries.

The tournament is sponsored by Atlanta, Buckhead, East Point and Decatur lodges. Al Ross, of East Point, is tournament chairman.

Redlegs Buy Two Pitchers

CINCINNATI, Oct. 14—(AP)—The Cincinnati Reds announced Sunday the purchase of two young pitchers from Buffalo of the International League.

The triple-A club got an undisclosed amount of cash and assignment of Jim Bolger's contract, the Reds said. Bolger, a youthful outfielder from Cincinnati, has been playing with the Reds' Charleston farm club in the Central League. He batted .253 in 104 games for Charleston last season.

Fleming Takes Ozark Open Title

SPRINGFIELD, Mo., Oct. 14—(AP)—Pete Fleming of Hot Springs, Ark., Sunday won the Ozark Open Golf Tournament with a 54-hole score of 205. He won $1,000.

Marty Furgol of Lamont, Ill., was second with 206, for $750. Ed Furgol of Royal Oaks, Mich., won $500. His third-place score was 207. Fourth and $350 went to Max Evans of Detroit, with 208.

Ansley Park Bogey

E. M. Kinney and W. R. Massengale were winners of Sunday's weekly blind bogey at Ansley Park. The number was 75.

Ruel Quits As Indians' Farm Head

CLEVELAND, Oct. 14—(AP)—Muddy Ruel quit Sunday as head of the Cleveland Indians' farm system.

The former catcher refused to say what his plans for the future were.

"I expect to have an announcement within the next few weeks," he declared, "but at the moment I'm not at liberty to say any more about it. Certainly it should be settled before the Winter meeting which comes early in December."

Ellis Ryan, Indians' president, called Ruel "one of the finest gentlemen I've ever known" and said he "has done a splendid job with our farm system. All of us in the office are sincerely sorry to see him leave."

Ruel broke into the American League in 1915 at St. Louis. Before ending his playing career in 1934 he played for New York, Boston, Washington, Detroit and Chicago.

WON FOR 'COACH BILL'

Now Look Who's Here As Contender: Vandy!

MEMPHIS, Tenn., Oct. 14—Vanderbilt, Southeastern Conference contender . . . sounds outlandish, doesn't it?

Yet it approaches the gospel, now that the Commodores have flattened Alabama (22-20) and Ole Miss (34-20) in succession.

Bill Edwards

WHAT Vandy did against the Rebels Saturday was to come from behind with a superhuman fourth quarter splurge for four touchdowns, shouldered by the uncanny senior targeteer Bill Wade, receivers Roy Duncan and Ben Roderick, and rusher Dick Foster. HOW Vandy did it went a little deeper but was about as refreshing as that phenomenal close.

Go back to Friday, when a story emerged that Coach Bill Edwards would resign Saturday effective at season's end, if he was not given a new year's contract immediately. Vandy players naturally were disturbed but early Saturday morning, Edwards, who apparently changed his mind, assured the team that he would stick with them. They gave him a cheer.

The usually jovial Edwards, however, still worried over the effect the report might have on the club's play. As the team filed from its hotel to board busses for Crump Stadium, Edwards stood alone on the balcony, a forlorn figure. A squadsman saw him, ran back and hustled the rest of the team over to Edwards. Spontaneously, they rose in another cheer for the coach. "Coach Bill," said one, "this one is going to be for you."

And it could only have been. Overcoming a 20-7 fourth-quarter deficit the way Vanderbilt did is something more from the heart than the body.

In the technical sense, six lost fumbles and faulty air attack wrecked Ole Miss. Vandy had stopped Bama the week before with a 6-3-2 defensive alignment, counting out Tide passing as a factor. The U. V. brain-trust switched strategy to allow for Reb passing by Jimmy Lear, the split-T quarterback, and the halfbacks and used a 5-3-2-1 exactly 59 times. The one time Vandy flowed into a 6-3, Lear splashed Reb end Bud Slay for a 17-yard score. That cured Vandy.

Edwards, Wade and Vanderbilt, now 2-1 in SEC play, move on to Florida (0-2) this week. Ole Miss (1-1) tries Tulane (0-0).

Hinnershitz Sets Mark At Lakewood

By BERT PRATHER

Tommy Hinnershitz, the Flying Dutchman from Reading, Pa., piloted his light blue racer to a new world's 25-mile flat dirt track record and also piled up enough points to displace one-legged Bill Schindler as the leader for the 1951 Eastern AAA championship before a crowd of 12,000 auto-racing fans Sunday afternoon at Lakewood's mile oval.

Tommy collected 50 points for winning the 25-mile feature, 16 for taking an eight-mile preliminary heat and 4.8 for finishing second to Shindler in a special match race.

In the 25-miler, the Dutchman gunned his speedy Blue No. 1 into the lead and led every lap of the way. His time was 16:51.20, breaking Johnny Mantz's world mark of 16:59 made here in 1949. This earned him the juciest portion of the $6,000 purse for the Lindsay Hopkins Sweepstake and also $2,500 in lap money which was put up by Hopkins, an Atlanta race car owner and sportsman.

As the drivers move into the last two races of the year, Hinnershitz has 558.8 AAA points; Schindler, 524 and Parsons, 486.

Other results:

FIRST HEAT: 1, Bill Schindler; 2, Mark Light; 3, Ernie McCoy, Reading, Pa. T—5:44.90.

SECOND HEAT: 1, Tommy Hinnershitz; 2, Joe Sistilio. T—5:39.60.

Gainesville's Elephants Top Team; Al Jeffrey Wins Coaching Honors

By BILL McGROTHA

Gainesville's classy Red Elephants, who on successive Fridays ended two of the longest winning streaks in Georgia prep football, are The Constitution's Team of the Week and Al Jeffrey of Forest Park is Coach of the Week.

Clayton Deavers

Only once this season has Gainesville's goal been crossed, in a 28-6 opening victory against West Fulton. Monroe fell, 28-0, and Griffin, 26-0, before Clayton Deavers' crew ended Rockmart's Class A reign at 14 straight, 21-0, then shot back last week to halt Decatur's streak at 27 in a row, 12-0.

Forest Park ventured into grid competition for the first time this season and named Al Jeffrey to direct the building program. The Class C eleven made an auspicious debut by whacking Class A Fulton, 26-0.

There followed a 7-6 squeezer past Fort Valley. Then the team started to roll. Buford fell, 27-0, McDonough, 48-7, Fayetteville, 33-12, and Hawkinsville, 31-0. So after six games, the Jeffrey outfit not only is unbeaten but a distinct threat for the state Class C championship.

Prep Honor Roll

RAY MERCER, Moultrie—Packer back, (1) rushed 95 yards in 25 carries, (2) completed five of 10 passes for 65 yards, (3) ran back three kicks for 77 yards, (4) punted three times for a 35.7 average and (5) scored two touchdowns as Columbus bowed, 40-18.

DONALD TRAYLOR, Rome — Grabbed 45-yard Arvie Pilgrim pass for touchdown, raced 62 for another as Hilltoppers trimmed Spalding, 14-7.

EARL PARKS, Rockmart—Brilliant full back scored three times as Yellow Jackets hit the comeback trail with a 19-6 victory over Cartersville. Performance earned him Back of Week nomination.

JIMMY FISCHER, Murphy—Directed Eagles to 32-7 victory over Smith, throwing passes for 113 yards and three touchdowns. Scored one touchdown, kicked two extra points.

FRANKLIN BROOKS, O'Keefe—Husky guard played tremendous defensive game, intercepted pass that led to touchdown, recovered fumble that led to another in smashing 55-6 triumph over Brown.

WALTER CHILDS, Grady—Husky tackle blocked punt that Larry Frank picked up and ran for touchdown. Played smashing defensive game that held Sylvan to 69 yards rushing, 33 passing in Knights' 19-0 triumph.

G. B. McLENDON, Hogansville—Tallied twice, once on a 66-yard ramble, as undefeated Hogansville tripped Carrollton, 27-19.

GOO-GOO HEIDT, Albany—Ace back got off a flu bed to pick up a touchdown and 78 yards rushing in a 41-12 toppling of Waycross, running his TD total to nine and his ground gain to 515 yards.

BILL CRAWFORD, Northside—His great running accounted for much of 246 yards unbeaten Tigers gained in ripping Chamblee, 26-6.

HARRY KIRK, Conyers—Picked up a fumble and raced 80 yards to paydirt as Conyers gained a 6-6 tie with Monticello.

BOBBY HOWARD, Gainesville — Tackle turned in the outstanding defensive plays on the field as Red Elephants halted Decatur's win streak at 27 straight, 12-0.

JOHN BELL, Jordan—Played smashing defensive game, blocked a punt that Charlie Cox scooped up and ran for a touchdown as Red Jackets nipped Baker, 18-14.

W. M. HUGHES, Marietta—Scored both touchdowns for victors in first quarter as Marietta nipped Cedartown, 14-12.

BILLY GRISWELL, Forest Park—Scored twice, added an extra point, to lead Forest Park to its sixth straight triumph, 31-0 over Hawkinsville.

JOHN BRENNAN, Marist—Grabbed a 33-yard Jackie Cotter pass to set up one touchdown, raced 34 for clinching score in 19-12 verdict over West Fulton.

RONALD STANFORD, Athens—Tackle picked up a fumble and raced 86 yards to score, turned in a stellar defensive performance as Lanier fell, 19-0.

BILL O'DELL, Newnan—Scored two touchdowns, set up a third on a 40-yard run, to lead a 20-0 tumbling of Hapeville.

JERRY SMITH, Calhoun—Guard turned in one of the top performances of the season for Calhoun in a 33-6 trouncing of Dade County.

JIM LOWREY, Druid Hills—His talented toe won a 7-6 game for the Hillers for the second time this year, his boot following Bill Duckworth's 75-yard skip against Southwest DeKalb.

JOHNSON FUNDERBURK, Jackson — Took an opening kickoff back 96 yards for a touchdown to set the tempo for a 33-0 decision over Austell.

BOOTSIE WHITE, Commerce—Passed to David White for one touchdown, tallied the other in 13-8 victory over Jefferson.

ROLAND PERDUE, College Park—Sterling blocking and tackling performance in team's 20-7 thumping of Summerville earned him the nomination as Lineman of the Week.

JACK QUINN, Russell—His smashing runs earned a 7-7 tie with North Fulton. It was his first outing after being hurt in the season opener.

HAROLD MEEKS, Villa Rica — Scored twice, including the decisive touchdown in the third quarter, as Manchester fell, 19-13.

PHILIP WILEY, Lithonia—Tallied on 16 and 17-yard runs in a 26-6 conquest of Roswell.

EDWIN SCROGGS, Buford—Swivel-hipped his way for two touchdowns on runs of 55 and 20 yards in 39-0 rout of Cornelia.

DON GRAHAM, Northside—Passing arm led 27-0 trampling of Chamblee. Two TD tosses went to Mike Eason on plays of 30 and 25 yards.

SAM BAXTER, Campbell—Tackle broke through to take a handoff from a surprised opposing halfback and galloped 36 yards to score in a 19-13 decision over Milton.

CURTIS AIKEN, Tucker—Scored two touchdowns on pass receptions of 35 and 55 yard's as Tucker vaulted past Royston, 18-12.

TOMMY HANSON, Grady—Got two of team's three touchdowns, one on a 33-yard scamper, averaged 9.6 yards per carry in 19-0 defeat of Sylvan.

BOBBY GARRARD, GMA — Former O'Keefe ace continued to spark Cadets unbeaten streak, scoring once and picking up heavy yardage in 14-0 triumph over Darlington.

JACKIE COTTER, Marist—Set up second-quarter scores on 33 and 40-yard passes, scored once in 19-12 trimming of West Fulton.

BOBBY EUBANKS, Griffin—Broke away for scoring runs of 82 and 46 yards to prove the difference in a 12-7 downing of previously unbeaten LaGrange.

RED TUGGLE, Douglasville—Passed 29 yards to Howard Kilgore for only TD, kicked all-important extra point in 7-6 victory over Southwest.

GUY JONES, Georgia School for Deaf—Whipped through Cummings' defense for five touchdowns in 38-7 victory.

PACKERS STUN EAGLES

Price Leads Giants Over Cardinals, 28-17

Condensed From Constitution Wire Reports

The New York Giants, only undefeated team in the National Football League, surged from behind with two touchdowns in the final quarter and whipped the Chicago Cardinals, 28-17, Sunday at the Polo Grounds. The victory gave the Giants an undisputed lead in the American Division, but Detroit, Chicago Bears, Green Bay, Los Angeles and San Francisco are deadlocked in the National Division.

Eddie Price, former Tulane fullback, paced the Giants' comeback, scoring the winning touchdown on a 25-yard gallop. Kyle Rote, the rookie from SMU, smashed 12 yards for an insurance marker a few moments later.

Price was the individual star, ripping the Cardinal line for 107 yards in 19 rushes. Ex-Georgia great Charlie Trippi flipped a short pass to Don Paul for the second Cardinal score.

Green Bay's Packers shocked the Philadelphia Eagles, 37-24, at Green Bay in the day's biggest upset, with Bobby Thomason tossing three touchdown strikes. End Bobby Walston of Georgia booted a 27-yard field goal for the Eagles and added three extra points. Frank Ziegler of Georgia Tech plunged over from the two for an Eagle score in the closing minutes.

Bob Waterfield passed for two touchdowns and kicked two field goals as the Los Angeles Rams clipped Detroit, 27-21, before 52,907 fans at Detroit.

At Pittsburgh, Southpaw Frankie Albert hit on 13 of 20 passes for 183 yards as the San Francisco '49'ers shaded the Steelers, 28-24. Steeler Joe Geri, former Georgia back, passed to Elbie Nickel on a 77-yard scoring play and kicked a field goal. Ray Mathews, from Clemson, hurled two touchdown heaves for the Steelers.

Quarterback Otto Graham surprised the Washington Redskins relying on a bruising ground game for five touchdowns in a 45-0 romp. Graham, who usually fills the air with aerials, passed for only one score. Harry Gilmer, of Alabama, completed eight pitches in 14 attempts for 116 yards and led Redskin runners with 24 yards.

Bob Celeri relieved Georgia's Johnny Rauch in the last half and almost engineered the New York Yanks to their first victory of the season. Celeri completed seven of eight passes as the Yanks hit pay dirt three times in the last quarter, but the Chicago Bears won, 24-21.

Perdue, Parks Honor Guests At TD Club

Roland Perdue, 195-pound tackle whose great defensive play led Bill Badgett's College Park Rams to a 20-7 triumph over Summerville, and Earl Parks, who scored all his team's points in Rockmart's 19-0 verdict over Cartersville, will be honored Monday as The Atlanta Touchdown Club's lineman and back of the week in Georgia.

Moving pictures of Georgia Tech's 13-7 victory over Kentucky will be a highlight of the progrma, it is announced by club president Asa Candler, Jr.

The weekly luncheon-meeting will be held at 12:30 p. m. at the Ansley Hotel's Rainbow Roof.

Sylvan's Corley Out With Injury

Ace Sylvan High halfback Charlie Corley suffered a kidney injury in his team's 19-0 defeat at the hands of Grady High here over the weekend. He is expected to be out of action for several weeks. The Bears will meet O'Keefe at Cheney Stadium Friday.

East Lake Dogfite

Ortmann Suffers Concussion In Tilt With 49'ers

PITTSBURGH, Oct. 14. (AP)—Halfback Chuck Ortmann of the Pittsburgh Steelers suffered a concussion when kicked in the head in Sunday's game with the San Francisco 49'ers. He was removed to a hospital in an ambulance.

Also hospitalized was Pete Wiseman, 220-pound tackle for the 49'ers. He suffered a left ankle injury. Doctors said there was no fracture.

COP Snaps Clemson Streak at 16, 21-7

STOCKTON, Calif., Oct. 14—(AP). Unbeaten College of Pacific unleashed its vaunted offensive power Saturday night for three third-period touchdowns to beat Clemson, 21-7, and end the Tigers' 16-game winning streak.

The Orange Bowl champions had been unbeaten since 1949. Clemson scored its sole touchdown in the final 31 seconds.

A crowd of 32,800 in Pacific Memorial Stadium saw the two elevens battle to a standstill in the first half. Clemson, a power of the Southern Conference, was ranked 16th in the current Associated Press national football poll. COP, an up-and-coming West Coast independent, rated 20th.

Pacific bottled up Clemson's star halfback, Billy Hair, holding him to 66 yards and two completed passes. He went out of the game with an injured ankle in the final period.

Both teams stuck mostly to the ground in the scoreless first half. COP sent in Doug Scovil to take over the quarterbacking in the second half and he opened up a combined running-passing attack that got his team rolling.

Halfback Tom McCormick, rated as the third top ground gainer of the nation, bore the brunt of COP's ball carrying. He piled up 111 yards to make his season total 505 in four games.

Neither team seriously threatened in the first half.

The second period was all Pacific's but the Tigers failed to reach pay dirt. COP made two threats. Clemson stopped the first one on the 16, two yards short of a first down. The second one was halted when Clemson's halfback Fred Knoebel intercepted a Scovil pass on the 26.

The Californians lost no time breaking the ice in the second half; they took the kickoff and scored in 12 plays—including a seven-yard midfield pass from Scovil to McCormick that saved COP from a forced punt and a 20-yard off-tackle sprint by McCormick. McCormick went off tackle from the three for the touchdown.

How progress in Oil helps progress toward PEACE

America has embarked on a great program of military preparedness in the hope that strength will keep us safe, and help insure world peace.

Your oil industry is providing many things. Fuels, to power jet planes, tanks, trucks, and ships. Lubricants, without which every machine would quickly come to a grinding halt. Asphalt, to pave roads and landing strips. Explosives, insect repellents, medicines, anesthetics . . . the list is almost endless.

Oil's task is enormous. Defense demands for petroleum products are greater now than at any time since the peak war year of 1945. And normal civilian demands are running at an all-time high. Fortunately, your oil industry has been preparing for this.

Compared to the peak war year of 1945:

Crude oil production is up 32%
Refining capacity is up 31%
Proved oil reserves are up 28%

More and more, oil is helping make America strong. And progress in oil will continue to help progress toward peace so long as your oil industry is permitted to operate freely and competitively, unhampered by restrictions or shortages of materials, manpower, or capital.

How Pure Oil helps meet America's petroleum needs

Pure Oil is active in all the major phases of the petroleum business—

- . . . producing crude oil in 12 different states.
- . . . refining it in 5 modern refineries.
- . . . transporting crude and finished petroleum products in pipe lines, barges, and seagoing tankers.
- . . . and marketing petroleum products to motorists, farmers, home owners, and industries in 24 states.

Pure Oil has been modernizing and expanding all of its facilities since World War II. Giant catalytic cracking units to produce high-octane gasoline have been built at Pure Oil's refineries in Texas and Ohio. Contracts have been let for constructing additional units.

An ever-increasing output of top-quality oils and greases is coming from Pure's ultra-modern plant near Beaumont, Texas.

A new research laboratory provides greatly enlarged facilities for Pure Oil scientists and technicians seeking ways to make new and better petroleum products, faster, at less cost.

The bidding:

South	West	North	East
1 diamond	Pass	1 spade	Pass
1 no trump	Pass	Pass	Pass

Opening lead: jack of hearts.

There are few calls in contract which are subject to more abuse than the rebid of two no trump by the player who has opened the bidding. Wherever values somewhat above minimum are held, these players are reluctant to rebid one no trump. They labor under the misconception that such a rebid is a "denial." A denial of what? Opener surely won't deny that he has an opening bid, because everyone at the table heard him open the auction. If we must employ the word "denial" (a much abused term), the rebid of one no trump denies that the opening bidder has a power house. That's all it denies. It couldn't mean that he has a poor hand, else he would not have opened the bidding.

Such a bid purports to say, "Partner, I have a hand that falls within the limits of a minimum opening. That is to say, it is evenly balanced and ranges in high card count between 13 and 16. If your hand is below average we cannot go game and might as well play it at one no trump. If your hand is above average (more than 10 points), you should make one more bid, for in that case there is a fair chance that we may have game in the hand."

In other words, the rebid of one no trump is frequently made on a hand which contains 15 points, which makes it rank, somewhat above hay.

How much then should opener have to justify a jump on the second round. Roughly about an ace and a queen above a minimum hand; in other words, 19 points.

In today's hand South held 16 points and his one no trump rebid was in order. If it is argued that South should have opened with one no trump, the answer is that it is not our practice to open with no trump on a hand containing a worthless doubleton.

East made a thoughtful play to prevent declarer from making overtricks. Upon winning the first trick, declarer led a spade to the jack, and East permitted it to hold, and this prevented the spade suit from being brought in. As the cards lie, declarer can win nine tricks by ducking the first spade completely and finessing the jack on the next round.

Your Mind's Mirror

By LAWRENCE GOULD
Consulting Psychologist

Should a person who has had "shock" marry?

Answer: The mere fact of having had shock treatments is not in itself a reason for not getting married—the important point is the nature of the illness for which the treatments were given and how thoroughly the person has recovered from it. Nowadays some doctors give electro-shock to sufferers from neuroses who have never been and never would have become mentally deranged, Again there are types of insanity which can be so nearly cured that there is no more danger of a relapse than of the average person's losing his mind. You had best get a psychiatrist's advice.

Do automatic machines prevent mistakes?

Answer: No, writes Dr. John D. Coakley of the Psychological Corporation, New York, in Personnel Psychology. Study of the work of three different operators on the same automatic nylon hosiery machine showed "costly variability" in the hose produced, not only by different operators, but by the same operator at different times (and presumably in different moods). No machine, however well designed, can wholly eliminate the human element" in production, so that maximum efficiency and uniformity remain problems toward solving which the psychologist as well as the engineer can contribute.

May kindness be frightening?

Answer. Yes. There is a type of morbidly suspicious or "paranoid" character who is actually more at ease with a person who treats him unkindly than with one who tries to befriend or help him. Unkindness is something he feels he knows how to deal with, whereas kindness—which he can't believe to be sincere because he is so sure that everyone is trying to hurt him—seems to him to be a trap which is more dangerous than open malice. In the background of this sort of man or woman, there is always a childish tragedy involving a sense of having been betrayed, most often by a trusted parent.

Possible New Food Source In Large-Scale Production

WASHINGTON, Oct. 14—(AP)—The first "large-scale" production of what may be a new source of food, developed with the help of sun power, was announced Sunday by the Carnegie Institution of Washington.

What the food might taste like, or just how it could be used—the basis is a tiny green fresh-water plant—are questions for the future.

The work is now in the "pilot plant" stage, and the institution said the next step would be to determine whether the process is feasible for full-scale commercial production.

If it should prove so, the Carnegie announcement said, the substance involved and others like it "might represent an increase in the world's food supply or a source of industrial raw materials."

Carnegie officials told a reporter that if the process works out, the first posibility would be food for animals, but it might also have possibilities for supplementing the human diet, especially in countries where people don't eat so well now.

POSSIBLE ERSATZ WOOL

They said that the reference to "industrial raw materials" meant such things as a possible new material for use in making artificial wool, and new materials for use as drying oils in paints and varnishes.

The material under study is the one-celled green alga plant, "Chlorella," one of a family of plants which, in nature, occur either as seaweeds or as various microscopic forms of fresh-water plants. Chlorella is a fresh-water form.

In the Carnegie studies, samples of the natural plants are caused to grow artifically in plastic tubes and troughs which are exposed to the action of the sun.

Such "Chorella farming" has been carried on in scientific laboratories for a half-century in the quest to solve the great riddle of "photosynthesis"—the process whereby plants transform solar energy into living tissue or food.

DETAILS LACKING

Officials offered no details on the efficiency of the process, but scientists long have contended that it is theoretically possible to utilize as much as 80 percent of the sun's radiant energy in the laboratory development of Chlorella.

In contrast, any plant growing in its natural environment makes use of only about one percent of the energy available from the sun.

The Carnegie Institution disclosed that during the past six months, a Chlorella-producing pilot plant utilizing solar energy has been placed in operation at the facilities of Arthur D. Little, Inc., consulting research and development organization of Cambridge, Mass.

"Continuous growth has been maintained and material harvested daily," Carnegie's announcement said.

"During the next phase of the project, emphasis will be placed on obtaining estimates of the cost of a full-scale installation and on finding out whether the product is satisfactory for various purposes."

In one unit of the Cambridge plant, a suspension of the tiny, green Algae plants is exposed to sunlight by being continuously pumped through a large transparent tubular channel.

Cop in a Cab

OMAHA—(AP)—A rookie police patrolman decided to resign from the Omaha force rather than face charges of "unbecoming" conduct after Police Chief Henry Boesen caught him covering his beat in a taxicab. The rookie's explanation was that he was delayed and took a cab to reach his phone by check-in time.

Here's why Fordomatic puts them all in the past!

For the past year, automotive writers, engineers and owners have been raving about a new kind of automatic driving . . . and here's why you get it only in Ford Cars:

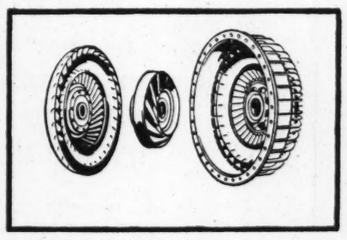

Fordomatic Drive optional on V-8 models at extra cost. Equipment, accessories and trim subject to change without notice.

All the power you need when you need it is yours with Fordomatic. You'll find it the most thrilling experience you ever had. You'll discover the advantages of having . . . the smooth going that automatic drives employing torque converters can give you . . . plus the zip, control, and savings that cars with automatic gears can give you. For Fordomatic gives you a combination of the finer features of all other automatic drives!

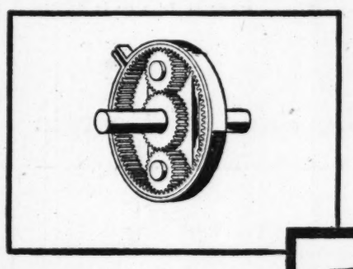

Some automatics have this

The automatic drive some cars offer you is a torque converter which multiplies torque without the use of gears. Its advantage is a smooth flow of power. Its disadvantage is a smaller range of torque multiplication which requires more power from the engine and an uneconomical axle ratio which increases operating costs.

Some automatics have this

Other cars offer an automatic drive that uses automatic gears (as illustrated in simplified form at right) instead of a torque converter. The advantage here is more "go," more control and greater economy. The disadvantage is that this system is not as smooth, nor as jerk-free as a torque converter.

But Fordomatic has both

Yes, Fordomatic has a torque converter plus automatic gears. It brings you only the advantages of both drives and eliminates the disadvantages.

Unlike cars with only a torque converter (which start and cruise all in one drive gear), Fordomatic starts fast and smooth in Intermediate Gear, then shifts itself into Drive Gear. Unlike cars with only automatic gears, Fordomatic has an infinite number of drive ratios for the exact amount of torque you need.

F.C.A.

Gives you instant "go"

Because Fordomatic gives you a combination of the best features of all other automatic drives, it delivers instant "go" for exceptionally easy, exceptionally smooth and fast starting, passing, and hill climbing.

Practically drives itself

Fordomatic drives your car for you better than you could ever drive it yourself. It brings you a completely new thrill in no-shift-lever, no-clutch-pedal driving, because its development began where all other automatic drives left off!

A gas-saving powerhouse

Fordomatic's numerically lower rear axle ratio gives the fewest engine revolutions per mile of any car in its field. And Fordomatic's automatic intermediate gear provides fast economical "get-away."

MARY HAWORTH

Pride Main Obstacle In Patching Lovers' Rift

DEAR MARY HAWORTH: I am 19 years old and a sophomore in college. Two years ago I met and fell in love with Brad, who was a classmate of mine during our last year of high school and freshman year of college. We went together for over a year and planned to be married some day.

Then a few months ago we had an argument, and soon afterwards I became ill. I heard nothing from Brad during my illness, but after a week or so he called to apologize. At first I refused to accept his call; but he persisted in calling until finally I decided to hear his side of the story. He was very apologetic.

Although I knew I didn't mean it, I told him never to call again, that we were through. Immediately afterwards I was sorry and cried inconsolably day after day, and night after night. I wouldn't make the first move to make up with him; and I knew that he wouldn't either, because we both were too proud.

Since then I have dated other boys, and I have heard that Brad too has been dating quite frequently. I love him and know that I can never be happy without him. School will reopen soon and I probably will see him in classes. I don't know how to go about winning him back. Should I speak to him first? Should I make the first move by inviting him to a party? Please advise me.—S. C.

DEAR S. C.: In trying to repair a lover's quarrel as serious as this, it is advisable to act directly, with candor, instead of beating around the bush with coy come-hither. If a situation has developed that requires you to cast aside pride, in an effort to recover camaraderie with Brad, you should not hesitate.

Pride is a poor thing at best, if it stands between you and the person you love: and I'd consider it a small forfeit compared to the peace of mind to be gained in doing your best (regardless of outcome) to restore the old footing with Brad. After all, he set you a brave example in this respect months ago, when he persisted in calling to voice apologies, despite your refusal to hear him at first.

The haughty performance in a lover's quarrel is really a cover for feelings of inferiority and insecurity in an uncertain relationship, in which loss of favor is always a possibility. The person who properly values himself as being normally loveworthy is candidly vulnerable to hurt in a sentimental relationship, and not fiercely defensive against it—to the extent of furiously hurting the other, with offensive thrusts, when he (or she) feels hurt; as you've been doing. This I mention because a bit of insight into your behavior may help you to bear twinges of jealousy more sanely in the future.

As matters stand, it's your move to apologize to Brad. So beginning now, make a forthright, persistent, aboveboard effort to reach him for a penitent talk about your wish to be his girl again. Use the telephone; don't write, and don't wait for chance encounters in class. If he cold-shoulders your first approaches, keep on courting his interest until he thaws.—M. H.

Robert Mobley Bray To Wed New Yorker In Late November

By ANNIE LOU HARDY

An announcement of special interest to Atlanta society is that made by Mr. and Mrs. Ringland F. Kilpatrick, of 1 Sutton Place South, New York City, of the engagement of their daughter, Mrs. Eugenie Kilpatrick Plantinga, to Robert Mobley Bray, of Atlanta and New York. Mr. Bray is the son of Mrs. Charles Sims Bray and the late Mr. Bray of Atlanta, and the brother of Sims Bray, Jr.

Mrs. Plantinga, whom Atlantans had the pleasure of meeting during a recent visit here, was educated at the Brearley School, the Shipley School at Bryn Mawr, and Vassar College. She is a member of the New York Junior League and made her debut in New York. Her mother is the former Miss Eugenia Oglesby of Atlanta.

Mr. Bray attended Woodberry Forest and was graduated from the University of Georgia. He served with the Eighth Army during World War II. He is associated with the New York representative of the Trust Company of Georgia.

His marriage to Mrs. Plantinga will take place in late November.

THE FIRST GLIMPSE of their grandson, small Christopher Dutton, is in store for Mr. and Mrs. Wilmer C. Dutton, who leave Tuesday for Chicago to visit their son and daughter, Mr. and Mrs. Wilmer Dutton Jr. En route to Chicago they will stop in Dalton where their young granddaughter, Patricia Jones, will join them for the trip.

Mrs. Janice McKinney, executive secretary of the Georgia Federation of Women's Clubs, leaves Monday for New Orleans where she will visit Mrs. Ceil Calmes for two weeks. She will also visit Baton Rouge, La., before returning home.

TWO ATLANTANS, Gerald Graham and Col. Douglas B. Kendrick, appear in the sixth installment of "My Fifteen Years With the MacArthurs" in the current issue of the Saturday Evening Post.

Mr. Graham, a well-known riding instructor and once a major on MacArthur's staff, is pictured with Mrs. MacArthur and her son, Arthur, on Christmas Day, 1944, in Australia. Col. Kendrick, a leader in the field of blood plasma during World War II, is referred to as General MacArthur's physician. His mother, Mrs. Douglas B. Kendrick, lives at 568 Linwood Ave., N. E.

ON HER RETURN from her summer home at Highlands, N. C., this week, Mrs. Hal Dumas will leave for Delray, Fla., where she will spend several weeks. Mr. Dumas will come from New York to join her at Delray.

MEMBERS of the Atlanta Fishing Club at Homosassa, Fla., will be interested to know that the movie, "Crosswinds," appearing currently at the Paramount Theatre, was filmed in many of their favorite haunts along the Homosassa River. In fact, the scene of the picture is that section of the river on which the Atlanta clubhouse, the winter home of Mr. and Mrs. William K. Boardman of Atlanta, and that of Mr. and Mrs. Kibbee Crump, of Macon, are situated.

THEIR SIX CHILDREN and eight grandchildren were hosts when Mr. and Mrs. William Virgil Cobb, of Smyrna, celebrated their golden wedding anniversary on Friday. The affair was held at Magnolia Hall.

Wedding Bells

Hooberry-Dean

Given in marriage by her grandfather, William A. Groves, Miss Marjorie Dolly Dean, daughter of Mrs. Morgan A. Dean and the late Mr. Dean, of Nashville, Tenn., formerly of Griffin, became the bride of William Davis Hooberry, son of Mr. and Mrs. Jesse J. Hooberry, Jr., at the East End Methodist Church, with the Rev. Richard Whitworth officiating. The bride wore a navy suit with a matching hat and white orchids. Mrs. John L. Mitchell, of Atlanta, was her sister's only attendant. Jesse J. Hooberry, Jr., was his son's best man. A reception was held in the church parlors. The bridal couple will reside at 805 Mile End Ave., Nashville. The bride attended the University of Tennessee and was graduated from George Peabody College for Teachers. Mr. Hooberry attended David Lipscomb College and Cumberland University. He served three years in the U. S. Marine Corps.

Pollitt-DuRant

Miss Norma Emily DuRant, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Norwood L. DuRant, of Gable, S. C., and Norman Polston Pollitt, of Atlanta, were married at the bride's home, with her pastor, the Rev. Charles Raynal, Jr., officiating. Given in marriage by her father, the bride was lovely in her wedding gown of ivory satin and chantilly lace. Her illusion veil cascaded from a tiara of lace and seed pearls. She carried white orchids and valley lilies. The groom's sister, Miss Marguerite Pollitt, was maid of honor, and the bride's brother, Norwood DuRant, Jr., was best man. Mrs. Pollitt, a graduate of Coker College, has for the past two years served as secretary to Miss Janie McGaughey, executive secretary of Women's Work of Presbyterian Church, Atlanta. Mr. Pollitt, son of Mrs. Corabel Mann Pollitt and Norman Pollitt, of Atlanta, is in the accounting department of International Harvester Company of Atlanta.

Wilkins-Maddox

Miss Edith Anne Maddox was married to Lt. Thomas C. Wilkins, Jr., at the home of her parents, Mr. and Mrs. Phil R. Maddox, of Griffin, with the Rev. L. W. Blackwelder officiating. Lt. Wilkins is the son of Mr. and Mrs. Thomas C. Wilkins of Barnesville. Roland W. Maddox gave his sister in marriage. She wore a gown of nylon net and chantilly lace, and a veil of illusion attached to a pearl tiara. The bride was attended by her cousin, Mrs. Royce Williams, of Atlanta, and the bridegroom's cousin, William Rapp, of Atlanta, was best man. A reception followed the ceremony. The couple will reside in Columbia, S. C., where Lt. Wilkins is stationed at Fort Jackson.

When you're making bacon muffins be sure to chop the bacon and pan-broil it, then drain it, before adding to the muffin batter. These are good with scrambled eggs for Sunday morning breakfast. Use two slices of bacon in a muffin recipe calling for two cups of flour.

A Woman Called Catherine

They say there's nothing that sells Christianity quite as efficiently as the spectacle of a working Christian at work. If that is true, Catherine Marshall, widow of the greatly loved Presbyterian minister, Peter Marshall, is a one-woman revival whose conversions will make some of the season's big-name evangelists seem like inept after-dinner speakers.

We saw Mrs. Marshall operating at a tea given in her honor at Rich's the other day and we would never have picked her for one of those individuals Protestant churches identify as "saints." Far from being shabby and thin-lipped and martyred looking, she was handsome and happy looking. She had poise and a white orchid pinned to one of the best-looking purple suits we have ever seen.

She seemed to be having a good time in a quiet sort of way and except for being prettier and younger looking, there was little to distinguish her from any of the successful lady writers who hit the tea-and-book-signing circuit every season.

She said the usual pleasant things to the old friends and school mates. She signed her name prettily and answered questions politely. But from George O'Hara, the publisher's representative traveling with her, we learned some things that made us go home and sit up until a late hour reading her story of her husband's life, "A Man Called Peter." Like her husband, Catherine Marshall feels strongly that God has a hand in her affairs. She looks to Him for guidance in small things as well as the big ones. Peter Marshall liked to refer to God as "the Chief" and O'Hara, joking a little but with a tinge of awe in his voice, said, "All our plans are made by 'the Chief.'"

Catherine Marshall has an arrested case of tuberculosis and has to rest long hours each day. But in spite of that she wrote the book in nine months.

"She says she was merely the instrument for getting the book on paper," O'Hara explained. "I know that sounds funny but you read the book and see. It's not the work of an amateur, who never did any more than a little writing at college. It reads like a professional wrote it. You'll see."

We saw, too, "A Man Called Peter" is as fascinating as a novel. It has wit and warmth. The author loved her husband but she never lapses into the faults of so many wife-biographers.

She saw his human frailties and laughs gently at some of his foibles. He was endlessly bedeviled by the weather and when he was courting her by Western Union his telegrams might speak of his deathless love in one sentence and give her a detailed report on Atlanta's weather in the next. In his early days his oratorical flights were often as funny as they were eloquent and Catherine missed none of the humor. But through the whole narrative runs the strong theme that Peter Marshall followed a course laid out for him by his "Chief." His wife, believing as he did, makes you wonder if the same sense of constant support and guidance isn't available to all of us.

OCS Fun, Says WAF From Atlanta

WAF Lt. Havis

"Especially the social life was fun," the pretty young WAF reports. She took officers training at Lackland Air Force Base, San Antonio, in a class of 230 men to 30 women.

"The tough part," Lt. Havis admits, "was marching to class with the 'gentlemen.' She had to develop a giant stride to keep up.

Dates broke up earlier than in civilian life, she reports. "Lights out" was 10 p. m. But the would-be officers didn't mind. The women kept the same "rough" schedule as the men. "Lights on" at 5:15 a. m.; breakfast at 6:11 and classes start at 7:25 a. m.

One hour of drill and an hour of physical training was also part of each day's routine.

Etiquette and grooming were stressed as much as at a girls' boarding school, according to the new officer. Table manners were "very formal." A good make-up job, becoming hair-do and straight stocking seams were "expected."

How did she pick the WAF over the other women's services?

Not just because the uniform matches her eyes, Lt. Havis claims. She took flying lessons in college, the University of Oklahoma. Then too, there were two air bases nearby.

She reports to Warner Robins Air Force Base, Macon, for "adjutant duty." Overseas duty and the "Voice of America" are her future goals.

Phi Delta Theta Mothers' Club Elects Officers

New officers of the Georgia Tech Mothers' Club, Georgia Delta Chapter, Phi Delta Theta Fraternity, are Mrs. Fuller Callaway, Jr., of LaGrange, president; Mrs. Arthur Edge, LaGrange, vice president; Mrs. Oscar Betts, Columbus, corresponding secretary; Mrs. Mercer Poole, Atlanta, recording secretary, and Mrs. S. A. Buckmaster, Columbus, treasurer.

Project for this year will be redecorating the Phi Delta Theta house at 734 Fowler, Northwest.

Boxwood Club Sets Plant Exchange

Members of the Boxwood Garden Club will hold a "plant exchange" when they meet at 11:30 a. m. Monday. Mrs. Henry D. Morgan, 111 Peachtree Battle Ave., N. W., will be hostess.

The finicky youngster who picks at his dinner may just need to relax his body's nervous tension. Try a warm bath with rich soapsuds before dinner, and bring him to the table clean, rested, and with an appetite!

FASHION FORECAST The big news from Paris this season is big sleeves and big skirts—but big sleeves have been an American fashion story for almost two years.

Now the big sleeve is called anything from leg o' mutton to chicken leg to souffle (Pauline Trigare's name) and can be spotted in every phase of fashion—coats, suits, day dresses and cocktail dresses.

In a season when fashion's leading silhouette is completely feminine, it is significant that balloon-type sleeves should come in with such a bang. More than any other, they give a woman a thoroughly romantic, curvy and feminine look.

Melon-type sleeves, tightly banded just below the elbow, are used by Herbert Sondheim for his pretty day dress of dark gray wool. Joset Walker likes the soft look of fullness at the elbow in a bell-like sleeve for a very wearable, live-in-able day dress. Pauline Trigere's famous souffle sleeve—romantically puffed for her cocktail dress in black peau de soie, highlighted by a rhinestone studded brassiere that peeks over the scoop neckline. One of the prettiest ways to look on a cold wintry day . . . leg o' mutton sleeves and a high-winged collar on a princess style broadcloth coat that's lined with red crepe. Another Pauline Trigere design. Another side of Pauline Trigere's souffle—this time softly draped with less fullness for a black imported wool voile princess afternoon dress. And center, the most romantic, most feminine handling of the leg o' mutton sleeve is this Traina-Norell design. In taupe-colored Italian taffeta, is is shown with matching shoes.

Hearty Meal, No Gaining, Is Possible

By IDA JEAN KAIN

The frost is on the pumpkin, there's a nip in the air and you come to the dinner table hungry. The spirit is willing enough, but those hollow pangs are far from weak. What to do?

Have a really satisfying meal. You can, and still keep the calories on the svelte side. What do you like for a first course, hot soup, a sea food cocktail or tomato juice? You can have soup and a sea food cocktail and still be on slimming fare. When ravenously hungry, it's a comfort to sip a soothing hot liquid. If eating at home, soup can be made with skim milk, which adds protection to the menu. Ordering in a restaurant, bouillon is the best choice. Celery and carrot sticks give something to chew on. Just chewing is a big help in quieting hunger pangs.

The second course should be hearty. The extent to which a meal gives a sense of satisfaction depends not so much on the quantity of the meal, or the number of calories furnished as on the satiety value. Protein foods have a high satiety value, so it is diet wise to plan the meal around lean meat or fish or fowl. To curb calories broil the meat, trim off the fat and avoid gravy.

Some fat may be included in the menu. In fact it is a good plan for fats give a meal staying power. But wouldn't you rather have the fat in the form of butter and in a salad dressing? Dieting doesn't mean going without, but it does impose a choice on the dieter.

If you are a meat and potato gal, have meat and potato. A fluffy baked potato, or a mealy boiled potato gives substance to a low calorie meal. Perhaps you are a bread and butter diner, in which case choose a slice of bread in place of the potato.

The satisfying quality of bulk furnished by vegetables and a salad is a real help. Choose a second vegetable, such as beets, string beans, cauliflower, carrots, turnips or tomatoes. These are all low in calories, so have a large serving. A green leafy salad is a real space filler. Serve with vinegar and seasoning or a low calorie salad dressing.

Other tips: Eat slowly and refrain from sipping ice water between bites. Water with meals washes off the taste buds and whets appetite.

A cup of hot coffee or tea is a nice finishing touch to a diet. That meal is completely satisfying, and within 500 calories.

If you wish help with the menus, send for Scientific Wonder Diet. Please address request to Ida Jean Kain, care of The Constitution, enclosing self-addressed, stamped envelope.

Club to Hear Leo Aikman

Leo Aikman, columnist in The Atlanta Constitution, will speak to the Atlanta Writers Club at a dinner meeting, 6:45 p. m. Thursday, at the Atlanta Woman's Club.

Others on the program will be Max McMurray, of Roanoke, Ala., author of "The Far Bayou;" Agnes Gray Ronald, Florida poet; Mrs. W. C. Horne, contralto soloist of Atlanta; and Harold Random of Atlanta's Civic Art Center.

MRS. OLMSTEAD REPORTS

Food Editors Told Facts About New Small Turkey

By AGNES REASOR OLMSTEAD

CHICAGO, Oct. 14—Food editors talked turkey and ate turkey—fried turkey, that is—only to discover the big news was about little turkeys. These little birds are fully-matured, broad-breasted and small enough for the family of two or three. These are not to be confused with the underveloped poults first marketed as small turkeys.

Ounce servings of wine were poured for comparative tasting. In judging the wines, editors were guided by a brochure prepared for the occasion, based on methods employed by professional tasters.

These junior turkeys are the result of scientific breeding and represent a new strain which always remains small, said W. S. Schafer, vice president of Armour and Company, in speaking to newspaper food editors at the closing meeeting of their conference.

These turkeys range in weight from four to 10 pounds and have the same generous proportion of white and dark meat as the regular large turkeys. It's good news, too, that the small turkeys are all white-feathered, so there are no dark pin feathers.

Junior turkeys are available throughout the year, and you can buy them either fresh, ice packed or quick frozen. Fully dressed, the junior turkeys are ready for roasting, broiling, or the frying pan when marketed.

Our luncheon meal featured enormous platters of tender, juicy, golden fried turkey accompanied by cauliflower polannaise, candied sweet potatoes, fresh cranberry sherbet and mixed green salad. The hotel chef outdid himself by concluding our menu with tiny ice cream turkeys delicately colored, and set on a nest of green sugar.

Other new products announced were the line of fresh frozen "convenience" meat items for quick - to - prepare meals: boneless pork chops, pork tenderloin, pork cutlets, steaks, chipped beef and veal cutlets. Any of these meats can be prepared in 20 minutes or less.

The taste harmonies of cheese and wine were demonstrated in the closing evening of the conference hosted by the California wine industry.

Vintage festival time in California inspired the theme of the tasting party. Lavish arrangements of the Golden State's fruits and vegetables decorated the hors d'oeuvre table from which hot cheese appetizers, many of them wine-flavored, were served following the cheese and wine tasting.

California red table wines and American-made cheeses were presented for tasting by the food experts. California claret, burgundy and several varietal wines of the two best-known red table types were sampled. Cheese offered for nibbling with the wines included cheddar, swiss, edam, gouda, brie, blue, provoline, brick, camembert, pineapple, gorgonzol, liederkranz.

Women in U.S. More Vital Than Ever

PHILADELPHIA— (AP) —The President of the General Federation of Women's Clubs this week listed five reasons why women in the United States are more important than ever.

Mrs. Hiram Cole Houghton of Red Oak, Iowa, told 2,000 delegates to the 40th biennial convention of P. E. O., national women's sorority, that "women bear a greater responsibility than ever before for the preservation of our American way of life."

Here's why, she explained:

1. "There are so many of us."
2. "We live longer than men."
3. "We have 92 labor-saving devices to give us more leisure time."
4. "We spend about 85 cents out of every dollar."
5. "We own most of the factories, stores, utilities and natural resources."

"I submit that men do not build houses or castles or beautiful churches or diesel trains, or even make soap, for themselves. They do it for, or because of, women," she added.

Your Stars Today

For Tomorrow

While the energies are keyed up to enterprise and initiative, it is probable that it may all be to no purpose. There is likely to be opposition from all quarters, with disagreeable situations and lack of co-operation affecting all effort and tempering the will to succeed. In any case, the judgment is not dependable in the making of new contracts. Litigation could follow a bad mistake.

If It Is Your Birthday

Those whose birthday it is could gain by postponing all active operations. Erroneous judgment could cause complications, litigation or strife. Continued opposition from many sources could undermine the desire to carry on. Strenuous and constructive attack would better be passed up for more propitious auspices. The strife or confusion could react on domestic, social or romantic plans or activities. The nervous system might also be depressed.

A child born on this day, while aggressive and willing, may be discouraged by constant opposition, strain and tension, its ardor dampened by its own decisions or unfortunate contacts.

Next time you serve mincemeat tarts, try putting a thin slice of quick-melting yellow cheese over each, then put the tarts in a moderate oven until the cheese is melted. Serve right away.

How Well Do You Smell?

By MARTHA SMITH

How well do you smell?

You'd be surprised at how much your nose knows, and in more than one instance you've followed your own nose to certain decisions, purchases and mental attitudes.

Research on smells, coming from a national pharmacal company, shows odd results . . . unless you already suspected the predominant importance of noses.

Women have a better sense of smell than men; brunettes boast keener noses (smell-wise) than blondes, but redheads smell better than anybody.

Fish have more highly developed odor-sense than any living creatures. Some people are smell-blind . . . they go through life knowing no odors at all.

A noted psychologist once ran a smell-test involving sales. Scented advertisements of perfume practically sell out the stock. Scented stockings outsell the unscented variety and many women weren't even conscious that the sale was made by a nose. A fire insurance firm sent out ads scented with an odor of charred wood . . . they sold more insurance through those smelly ads than ever before!

This same research comes through with the blunt statement that an odor of magnolia blossoms will stimulate children's appetites. Bed-sheets scented with jasmine or lilac are relaxing and conducive to sleep.

Final announced decision from this panel of poky noses is that one sniff is worth 10,000 tastes. In other words, a pie by any other name would taste as sweet but you'll recognize it faster by its aroma.

Silver Coat

A new transparent coating, made of vinylite resins, is now on the market, to prevent tarnishing of silver, brass, copper and other metals.

The coating is applied with a brush and may be removed by breaking the film with a fingernail and peeling it off.

It is recommended for use on such things are andirons, door knobs, lamps, candlesticks and ornamental metal articles.

Have a bone-dry basement

Nothing is as good as STA-DRI for stopping water and beautifying masonry. STA-DRI is the inorganic mineral coating for all masonry, that stays white when wet, is not subject to weather-wear, organic deterioration, disintegration, rubbing off or flaking and stone-like in resisting erosion.

Newcomers to the masonry waterproofing field say "new", "never before" and make claims that STA-DRI has exceeded for years with hundreds of thousands of satisfied users to prove it. Only STA-DRI dares to advertise and support the claim that it WILL HOLD A WALL OF WATER NINE FEET HIGH WITHOUT LEAKAGE. Containing a mold and mildew inhibitor, STA-DRI comes in white and a variety of colors at no extra cost. Don't be satisfied with "second-raters" or take something that's "just as good." Demand the package that says "Best by Test". Demand STA-DRI.

BRAKES, WHEEL ALIGNMENT

William Davis, Specialist, Joins Gordy Tire Co. Here

William Davis, wheel alignment and brake specialist, is the most recent addition to the Gordy Tire Company's staff of technical experts. Mr. Davis brings to the company eight years of specialization in his field.

Complete tire care services, as well as the extensive supply of brand-name new tires carried, have established the Gordy Tire Company as "Atlanta's Tire Headquarters." Tire balance and wheel alignment are special features of Gordy's tire service. The firm maintains 30 molds manned by factory trained specialists and scientifically designed for recapping all types of passenger, truck and tractor tires. The tractor new lugging service is an exclusive one with Gordy.

A fleet of 15 trucks gives instantaneous response to service calls which explains the dependence individual car owners and fleet operators put in the Gordy Tire Company. All services rendered and all merchandise sold by Gordy Tire Company are backed by the famous Gordy Double Guarantee, familiar to Atlantans for the past 23 years. This double assurance incorporates Gordy's guarantee with the warranty of the maker.

Malaya Increases

Estates produced 27,330 tons and small holdings 25,175 tons. In July, the output was 27,286 tons on estates and 21,679 tons on small holdings.

Production through August of this year totals 408,583 tons which is 30,000 tons less than in the corresponding period of 1950.

Serving Needs Of Southeast Dealers, Shops

Serving the needs of dealers and shops throughout the Southeast, S. D. Posey Co., Inc., announces the arrival of a new shipment of Berger convertible steel shelving. Announcement of the shipment was made by S. D. (Sam) Posey, head of the firm.

With offices and warehouse located at 690 Murphy Ave., S. W., Unit B-12, S. D. Posey Company can now offer prompt shipment of Berger shelving for both automotive and industrial use. Company officials point out that Berger steel shelving offers many unique advantages for the user, and is designed and constructed for efficiency, economy, service and long-lasting satisfaction.

The Berger convertible steel shelving line is built around an extensive group of shop-fabricated units including posts, braces, shelves, back and end closures, ledge shelves, dividers and bin fronts, counter tops and inserts for storage of tools and small parts.

"The Berger steel shelving line is constructed of finest materials," said Mr. Posey. "Each individual unit is designed to afford utmost flexibility in its application to the completed assembly. This makes possible an almost unlimited range of shelf spacing and depth, length, height, divide spacing and other factors which permit the planning of the shelving to meet economically and efficiently every storage requirement from small parts and bulk materials to large castings, patterns or flat stock."

Berger steel shelving is made from quality steel produced by Republic Steel Corp., a recognized leader in steel improvement. It is manufactured by master craftsmen with a background of more than 64 years of steel fabrication in one of the most modern metal-working plants, permitting numerous design refinements not possible in plants lacking such up-to-date equipment.

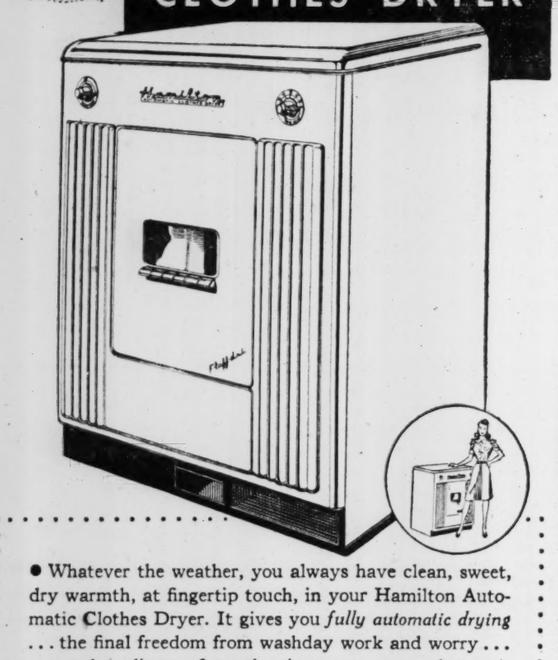

In addition to the Berger line, which includes all types of shelving, parts bins and lockers, the S. D. Posey Company also distributes Hallowell steel shop and factory equipment, the Benbow Trac-Trolly system for electrifying hoists and cranes of all sizes and types, Black & Decker electric power tools and equipment, Wilton vises and power arms, Wheeling expanded steel products, Dake presses, Diamolloy hand tools, Evans automotive machine tools, Clayborn automotive and aircraft engine stands, Century drills and many other nationally - known lines.

For full information and prices about any of their products and services, telephone RA. 3128, write or visit S. D. Posey Co., 690 Murphy Ave., S. W., Unit B-12.

NEW SHIPMENT OF BERGER STEEL SHELVING FOR POSEY—Famous Berger steel shelving arrives in Atlanta, consigned to the S. D. Posey Co., Inc., Southeastern distributors. Manufactured by Republic Steel Corp., Berger shelving features advanced design and modern fabrication materials.

JET-TOWER WASHES A "MOUNTAIN" OF DISHES, PANS, GLASSES!—All dishes, stemware, glasses, silver, pans, milk bottles, etc., shown were washed at the same time in a normal loading by the Youngstown Kitchens Dishwasher. Mrs. Elaine Snedeker, right, Home Service Director of Chas. S. Martin Distributing, demonstrates this tremendous capacity for Miss Ruth Plunkett. Read about $100 trade-in offer on this page.

$100 Trade Allowance for Old Sink on Jet-Tower Dishwasher

During the past six weeks hundreds of Georgia homes have benefited by two unusual offers made by Youngstown Kitchen dealers. The occasion is the first anniversary celebration sale on the Jet-Tower dishwasher.

Offer number one is this:

Dealers are authorized by the factory to allow $100 for the homeowner's old sink on the purchase of a Youngstown Kitchens automatic dishwasher or on the electric sink. What this amounts to in effect is a straight $100 reduction off the regular prices.

The 27" model which lists at $289.95 thus costs only $189.95 plus the old sink. The 48" electric sink which lists at $389.95 comes down to only $289.95 plus the old sink.

Instead of trading in their old sink, purchasers may choose absolutely free a Youngstown Kitchens electric food waste disposer when they buy either the 27" model Jet-Tower dishwasher or the 48" electric sink.

This food waste disposer is worth $119.50. It fits into the drain on the electric sink or other standard sinks, and brings the modern kitchen completely up to date by eliminating garbage for all time.

Exclusive Georgia distributor for Youngstown Kitchens is Chas. S. Martin Distributing Company, Atlanta. Youngstown's phenomenal surge to first place in the sale of automatic dishwashers this past year was accomplished through their ability to produce a better automatic dishwasher than anyone had ever made before, stated Chas. S. Martin, president of the distributing firm.

"Youngstown Kitchens are the world's largest makers of steel kitchen equipment," Mr. Martin said, "and their economies in mass production have enabled them to make this infinitely better dishwasher so it can be sold for substantially less than other makes."

Capacity of the Youngstown Kitchens dishwasher is considerably more than most makes. It is not exceeded by any other domestic model.

The compactness of the Youngstown cabinet actually creates an optical illusion. Ingenous arrangement of baskets plus the exclusive Jet-Tower principle enables the Youngstown Kitchens dishwasher to not only wash more at one load than others, but to wash faster and better.

No pre-treatment or after-treatment is necessary. Even pieces with smeared-on lipstick and dried egg yolk come sparkling clean in a jiffy. Most delicate stemware, sterling, baby bottles, pots and pans, china—all can be washed at the same time in a Youngstown Kitchens Jet-Tower dishwasher.

By taking immediate advantage of the $100 trade-in offer or the free $119.50 food waste disposer, buyers can now get the world's finest automatic dishwasher at a fraction of the cost of other and less-efficient makes.

Those wishing to budget payments may take up to 18 months. On many trade-in deals no money down will be required and in any case as little as 15 per cent down will suffice. Dealers can handle complete installation, including those charges also on the same budget plan.

Wherever you live in Georgia a Youngstown Kitchens dealer in your city or nearby is participating in this money-saving event. Dealers should be seen at once for the sale is to continue for a very short while longer. If name of dealer is unknown, write or telephone Chas. S. Martin Distributing Company, 250 Peachtree St., Atlanta. Telephone is LAmar 3292.

Rumbold & Co. Distributors for Empire Models

Are you going to have "cold floors" in your home this winter?

During the cold weather months, many families—and especially the children—suffer discomfort from cold floors, often the result of improperly planned heating arrangements in the house. However, those with Empire Gas Floor furnaces can enjoy comfort - controlled "flush to floor" heating which eliminates cold floors and circulates clean, healthful warm air to every part of the house. Empire's many features are explained in a special announcement by Al Rumbold, president of the Rumbold Co., Inc., distributors for Empire in this area.

A. H. Rumbold

"This proven low-cost modern method of heating is planned to meet all individual heating requirements with minimum operating costs," said Mr. Rumbold. "A steady, constant flow of warm air from the furnace provides complete heating satisfactiont—the return air flows at floor level, assuring warm floors."

Empire gas floor furnaces are installed below the floor level. No basement is required. Easy to install and service, expensive excavation isn't necessary, nor are air ducts needed. Only an attractive floor register is exposed.

Incidentally, all Empire gas floor furnaces are equipped with the famous Empire Thriftmatic gas burner, recognized as the world's finest. This burner is designed for maximum primary air injection. It is quiet, efficient and streamlined to prevent clogging. It produces a short mantle, bright blue flame with unequaled combustion and economy. No air adjustment is necessary.

Rumbold & Co. officials point out that the Empire is engineered for all available gas supply—not merely adapted. The Empire is AGA-laboratory approved for all types of gases and all altitudes at full rated capacity.

Another feature is the elimination of internal baffles in the new Empire furnaces. Usually installed to correct improper design, internal baffles are short lived because they soon burn out. Empire's engineers have eliminated these baffles, and as a result have increased the life of the heating element.

Empire gas floor furnaces are manufactured by the Empire Stove Co., of Belleville, Ill. The furnaces are assembled and tested at the factory and are shipped as a packaged unit to assure perfect operation, and minimum service. They have been used for many years all over the country and have earned for the manufacturer an enviable reputation for reliability.

For full information about the Empire gas floor furnace, see your dealer or heating contractor now. Dealers interested in the Empire should call LA. 3652, wire, write or visit Rumbold & Co., 379 Nelson St., S. W. Prompt shipment can be made now, firm officials announced.

"EFFICIENT, LOW-COST HEATING"—Empire users in all 48 states are enjoying the best in carefree dependable low-cost gas heat, A. A. Coulan, of Rumbold & Co., Empire distributor, tells Melba Hicks. Dealers are now showing the Empire Gas floor furnace in their showrooms. See story.

Pianos Not Scratched

THE FORRESTAL DIARIES

Events Before Airlift To Berlin Described

(Seventeenth in Series of Forrestal Diaries)

Early in May, 1948, Ambassador Bedell Smith in Moscow acted upon his instructions to put American policy and the American desire for a peaceful understanding privately before the Kremlin. Molotov adroitly twisted the intent and published the correspondence in such a way as to put the onus for continuance of the cold war on the United States.

Henry Wallace, now Progressive party candidate for the Presidency, did not improve matters by addressing an open letter to Stalin, outlining the Wallace terms for peace and giving Stalin the chance cordially to accept them. There was much worry in Washington next morning.

18 May 1948

RUSSIAN-AMERICAN RELATIONS

Discussion this morning with Sidney Souers (then secretary of the National Security Council) about our position vis-a-vis Russia. He said he had told the President this morning that he, Souers, was deeply worried about the evolution of a pattern of confusion in the public's mind as a result of (a) Molotov's midnight announcement about the Molotov-Smith conversation, (b) Wallace's letter to Stalin, and (c) Stalin's answer on Monday night. I observed that one concrete result of these developments might be failure to secure the passage of Selective Service.

Eber (Ferdinand Eberstadt), who was present at the meeting, said the practical situation now was that the development and expression of our Russian policy was escaping from the formal channels of government into conversations between a private citizen and the head of another state. He said it seemed to him that all concerned within the government . . . should meet and discuss all angles of the Russian question. . . .

I then talked to Under Secretary Lovett to express a feeling of frustration at the success of the Russian propaganda. . . .

NEED FOR SOLVENCY

The President, about to leave for a Western speaking trip, called a high level meeting to advise him as to how to deal with such propaganda efforts.

21 May 1948

MEETING AT THE WHITE HOUSE

Marshall proposed to emphasize the necessity for continuity of policy and of the need for sufficient residual force to back up policy. . . .

Lovett said that foreign policy, like a war plan, could not be stated in a single speech . . . but was a planned, continuing flow of actions and statements directed toward a central objective. . . .

Harriman said the public and the newspapers had failed to grasp the fact that (the Russian moves) were clear evidence that American policy, as initiated a year ago last winter and as expressed . . . in our firmness at various points of contact . . . had forced the Russians to a change of their tactics.

I gave it as my view that the country needed a constant restatement of our objectives and of the magnitude of our task, that we must not approach our international responsibilities in swiftly changing moods. We must have a resolute and firm attitude behind which we can advise on a solid front and not on a jagged and spasmodic line. . . . In moving toward these objectives we had to be sure that we remained socially sound and financially solvent; a busted benefactor, no matter how deep and sincere his beneficence, obviously can be of little use to any community. . . .

BERLIN BLOCKADE

They would have been less concerned, however, had they known how soon the Russians themselves were to explode their own peace propaganda. On June 24 (the day that Thomas E. Dewey was nominated for the Presidency by the Republican National Convention in Philadelphia) the Russians finally clamped down a complete blockade on the Western sectors of Berlin. On Sunday, the 27th, there was a conference of high State and Defense officials in Secretary of War Royall's office.

27 June 1948.

BERLIN SITUATION

Discussion proceeded on the assumption that with existing food stocks, plus supplies which might be brought in by air, serious food shortages would not occur for approximately thirty days, and the German population could perhaps be fed for 60 or more days if dried foods were introduced. The three possible courses of action discussed were the following:

1. Decide now to withdraw from our position in Berlin, in concert with the other Western powers, at an appropriate time in the future, presumably when a constituent assembly for a Western German government is called on September 1, and plan accordingly.

2. Decide at this time to retain our position in Berlin by all possible means, including supplying Berlin by convoy or using force in some other manner, such action to be only as a last resort after utilizing all diplomatic and other means to stay in Berlin without force to avoid war, but accepting the possibility of war as a consequence if necessary.

3. To maintain our unprovocazizing first every local means, and subsequently every diplomatic tive but firm stand in Berlin, utilmeans, to obtain recognition and assertion of our rights while postponing ultimate decision to stay in Berlin or withdraw.

Secretary Royall felt that a decision should be reached now concerning our ultimate position, since our actions in the immediate future should be patterned in the light of this decision. . . . There was also preliminary discussion of the various steps which might be taken, on the one hand either to minimize or cover our withdrawal from Berlin, and on the other hand to augment our position vis-a-vis the Russians. Consideration was given to whether two B-29 squadrons now in Goose Bay should proceed to Germany, and as to whether it would be advisable to base two B-29 groups in England.

PRESIDENT PRAISED

28 June 1948

MEETING AT WHITE HOUSE —BERLIN SITUATION

Present: Lovett, Royall and myself.

Lovett recited the details of the meeting at the Department of the Army, Sunday afternoon. When the specific question was discussed as to what our future policy in Germany was to be—namely, were we to stay in Berlin or not?—the President interrupted to say that there was no discussion on that point, we were going to stay period.

The President, as always in crisis, was admirably firm, and when some expressed doubts as to possible eventualities, he said simply "that we would have to deal with the situation as it developed." But the means remained to be worked out.

2 July 1948

CABINET

Gen. Marshall discussed the situation in Berlin.

He read a copy of a message which the State Department had drawn and proposes to send to Stalin. It recites both the legal and moral considerations for the Western Allies remaining in Berlin and reaffirms the determination of the Allies to stay there. . . .

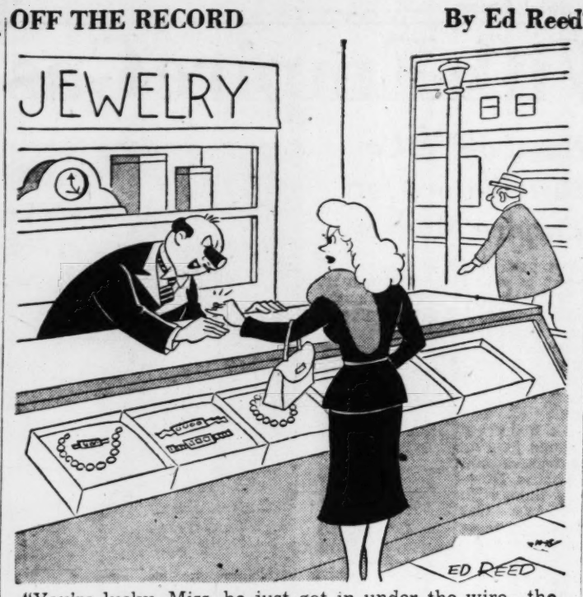

He reported the beefing up of the B-29 strength in Germany from one squadron to a group. He said that the British had been asked whether they would like to have two additional B-29 groups proceed to Britain and that Bevin had replied in the affirmative. Douglas (American Ambassador) had been instructed to ask Bevin whether he had fully explored and considered the effect of the arrival of these two groups in Britain upon British public opinion, and he (Marshall) had to weigh the effect (a) on the Russians, and (b) of the implications and inferences to be derived from sending these groups to Britain. He said the effect on the Russians had to be balanced against the appearance to our own people of what might be construed as a provocative action. . . .

The diary does not further explain the "implications" which Marshall had in mind; but some of them may be readily guessed. The B-29s were known throughout the world as the atomic bombers, and to put a strong force of them into British bases would be to bring them within striking distance of Moscow. The sudden exigency of the Berlin affair was, throughout the ensuing weeks, to compel much serious reappraisal of the bomb and of its real place in American policy and strategy.

OUR NEGRO COMMUNITY

Cancer Society Hears National PTA President

By CLAUDE GEORGE, SR.

Scientists are today's pioneers, seeking new frontiers of disease control and better health, Mrs. Beatrice Morgan, president of the National Association of Negro Parents and Teachers and a member of the advisory board of the National Field Army American Cancer Society, told a meeting of the Georgia American Cancer Society (Negro Division) here at its third state meeting.

The speaker was introduced by Mrs. Ethel Kight Jeanses, supervisor of Troup County and state president of the Association of Colored Parents and Teachers. Dr. Aaron Brown, cochairman of the state executive committee, presided.

Other speakers addressing the two-day meeting included Mrs. S. M. Lewis, state commander; Mrs. Phoebe F. Burney, dean of women, Clark College; Mrs. Mabel Hawk, chairman of Lay service; Lon Sullivan, executive vice president of Georgia Division, American Cancer Society; C. T. Perkins, Fulton County unit; Atlanta Constitution Columnist Celestine Sibley and Miss B. E. Usher, representing Atlanta's Negro public schools.

PTA School

A Parent - Teacher Association school of instruction for the Atlanta area will be held at the Carnegie Library, Auburn Ave., Oct. 21-22 from 4:30 to 7 p. m. The school will include instruction on parent education, qualification for leadership, opportunities in the rural area, home and family life, parliamentary procedure, safety and "What the Youth Expects of the World Today." Mrs. Mary Jordan, district president, urges all who are interested in PTA work and the members in the five counties that make up the Atlanta area to be present.

44th Convention

The 44th annual session of the Womans' Convention, an auxiliary to the Atlanta Missionary Baptist Association, will convene here Tuesday.

The three-day meeting will be divided between Ebenezer Baptist Church and Liberty Baptist Church.

The theme for the convention is 'What Is Christian Living?" Mrs. I. F. Henderson, president, will deliver the annual address Wednesday. Moderator M. L. King, Sr., of the association, will speak Wednesday afternoon.

Thursday's guest speaker will be Mrs. M. J. Thomas, president, woman's department, State Baptist Convention. Final committee reports will be made Thursday.

Kindergartens

Record - breaking enrollment in Negro kindergartens has been reported by Miss Ira Jarrell, superintendent of Atlanta schools. Seven hundred and forty-five pupils are enrolled in 12 of the 14 elementary schools operated by the Atlanta Board of Education. "Before the end of the year we hope that kindergartens will be operated in the other two schools, C. W. Hill and E. P. Johnson," Miss Jarrell said.

Parent Problems

The parent education committee of West Hunter Branch recently opened a series of discussions on parent problems.

Topic for discussion was "Television and Our Children." Panel members were Mrs. Ruth Hodges, Mrs. E. B. Williams and C. E. Brock. These discussions are being promoted to provide a better understanding of problems common among children and parents.

8 in Family Die As Home Burns

CHIPMAN, N. B., Oct. 14—(AP). Eight members of one family perished early Sunday in a fire which destroyed their home in the nearby village of Bronson. Chipman is about 130 miles north of Fredericton.

Five children, their parents and grandfather lost their lives in the blaze that broke out in pre-dawn darkness.

They were: Alphie DuPuis, 32; his wife, Yvonne, 25, and their children, Edward, 7; Lena, 6; Louella, 5; Stella, 2, and Stephen, 14 months. The grandfather was Focithe DuPuis, 59.

Firemen believe all were overcome in their sleep.

NEWS ABOUT GEORGIA

Constitution State News Service

Albany has made enormous strides in business, manufacturing and military establishments since the end of World War II, but agriculture remains the top industry in the city and surrounding area. In 1950 Dougherty County farmers earned nearly $3,000,000 and this year's total farm income in the county is expected to go still higher.

Peanut Mart Opens

The only peanut market in Washington County has been opened in Sandersville. . . . The State Department of Agriculture is expanding its auction sale of pecans to several State Farmers' Markets. The auction plan was inaugurated on the Cordele market in 1949. . . . The Rome Exchange Club and the Rome Chamber of Commerce will share in entertaining Georgia's commissioner of agriculture, Tom Linder, at the Coosa Valley Fair "Agricultural Day" program Friday.

Clothing for Korea

Two thousand pounds of clothing and shoes collected during the American Relief for Korea drive have been packaged for shipment at Robbins Air Force Base. . . . William Courtenay, British war and aviation correspondent, will arrive at Lawson Air Force Base Thursday, Oct. 25, to address personnel of the 117th Tactical Reconnaissance Wing.

Three Offices

Jimmy H. Oliver of Waynesboro recently won three student offices in one day at Georgia Teachers College. He became president of the chapter of Future Teachers of America, president of the Science Club and vice president of the senior class.

Ten Killed Is Weekend Traffic Toll

Georgia highway accidents took a heavy toll over the weekend, counting 10 dead and many injured, State Patrol headquarters in Atlanta reported.

Patrolmen reported Francis Bartow Burke, 42, of Rt. 3, Sylvania, was killed Sunday two miles south of Millen on U. S. 25 when the car he was driving overturned.

Johnny B. Guyton, 38, of Rt. 1, Dexter, died in a Saturday smashup five miles northwest of Dublin on the Old Factory Road.

A bicycle rider, Ralph Summerford, 11, of Meigs, was killed Saturday when struck by an auto in Thomas County.

Clarence E. Chatham, 47, of Rt. 2, Alpharetta, died Saturday in an accident five miles south of Marietta on the Roswell Road.

Rosa Allen, 20-year-old Negress, of Rt. 2, Danville, was killed Saturday when struck by an auto as she stood by a rolling store parked on State Highway 112, four miles north of Allentown, Patrolmen said.

A Burke County accident Friday resulted in the death of Frank Knight, 67, of Rt. 1, Hilton. Patrolmen said the car Knight was driving hit a shoulder four miles north of Sardis on State Highway 21 and overturned.

A Negro woman and her two-year-old child were killed Friday near Tifton when their car rammed the back of a tractor on State Highway 319. They were listed as Emma Mae Clark, 30, and Rayfield Clark, of Rt. 6, Tifton.

Loyd David Johnson, 22, of Kingston, died in an accident three and a half miles north of Cartersville on Highway 41. Three were injured.

Harold Hughes, 16, of Rt. 3, Gainesville, was killed when the car he was driving overturned on U. S. 23, three miles south of Gainesville.

Mrs. Scott Passes Away In Austin

Mrs. Trammell Scott, former Atlantan and wife of the late Trammell Scott, president of the Southern League, and prominent Atlanta sportsman, passed away Saturday night at her home in Austin, Texas.

Mrs. Scott was president of the Peachtree Garden Club for two years and a vice president of the E. Rivers School PTA. She was active in Red Cross work during World War II.

The former Glenne Emerson of Menominee, Mich., Mrs. Scott came to Atlanta in 1917 and moved to Austin about three years ago after the death of her husband. She was the daughter of a former congressman.

Mrs. Scott was a member of the Second Christian Science Church here.

Surviving are two daughters, Mrs. Fred Starr of Austin and Mrs. Jack Healey of Oklahoma City, Okla., and one granddaughter.

Funeral arrangements were incomplete Sunday.

African Crafts Display Opens At Library

Africa is no longer the Dark Continent in the opinion of Mrs. Margaret Davis Bowen.

"We are the ones in the dark," declared the wife of J. W. Bowen, resident Bishop of the Methodist Church, eWst Coast Area, after returning from a tour of Africa with her husband.

To illustrate her statement, Mrs. Bowen Sunday opened a display of African arts and crafts at the West Hunter Branch of the Atlanta Public Library where she will show native products through Friday.

There is a scarab from Egypt, basketry from Belgian Congo, handbags from Angola and colorful costumes from several countries.

"Women of color are beginning to come into their own," she says. "In Africa, the women have traditionally worked in the gardens. Now they want to do other things; take part in politics, paint, write."

She wore the head scarf (kitambala) and the blouse (libava) with a wrap-around skirt (diboko) made by the Belgian Congo natives.

Edgar B. Davis Dies in Texas

GALVESTON, Tex., Oct. 14—(AP)—Edgar B. Davis, wealthy Luling, Tex., oil man and philanthropist, died in a hospital Sunday. He was 78.

Davis, who for two years kept the theatrical failure, "The Ladder," running on Broadway in 1926-27, was brought to the hospital here last week after suffering a stroke.

He never regained consciousness since he was stricken and fell at his home in Luling last Saturday.

A native of Brockton, Mass., Davis founded a rubber fortune in Sumatra where he went for his health shortly after the turn of the century.

In the 20's he came to Texas and sunk his fortune in six dry oil tests and borrowed to drill a seventh near Luling. It came in a gusher in 1922 and in 1926 he sold out to the Magnolia Petroleum Co. for $12,100,000.

DISCussion

By HOWELL JONES

GRIEG'S "CONCERTO IN A MINOR FOR PIANO AND ORCHESTRA, OPUS 16"—Walter Gieseking, piano, with Herbert Von Karajan conducting the Philharmonia Orchestra. (Columbia.)

One of the outstanding performances of Grieg's popular piano concerto—some say it is the best—was recorded several years ago by the great German pianist, Walter Gieseking, on 78-rpm. records. These records no longer are available, but Columbia has reissued the performance on long play. The new recording enhances the beauty of the perennially popular music and makes the piano passages dance out of the speaker with life-like clarity. Gieseking, his politics notwithstanding, is a brilliant artist. There are less than half a dozen pianists alive today who could play with the feeling and artistry he does in this new release.

Beethoven seldom expressed an opinion of his own work but it is on record that he was particularly pleased with the Seventh. Unfortunately, the Seventh will always suffer because the same man also wrote the monumental Third and Fifth. Though the Seventh is not program music, Wagner called it the "apotheosis of the dance" and that perhaps is as good description as any. Like many others, we believe that Bruno Walter is the foremost interpreter of Beethoven, and again he gives a masterful reading. The recording quality of this LP is excellent. This record is a must for anyone trying to acquire a collection of great music brilliantly performed.

MOZART OPERATIC ARIAS sung by Ezio Pinza with the RCA-Victor Orchestra and Chorus conducted by Alfred Wallenstein. (RCA-Victor.)

Georgians have heard the great Pinza sing many Mozart arias on his visits to Atlanta with the Met. Here is a group of the best-known and loved on four 45-rpm. records: "Catalogue Aria," "Serenade" and "Champagne Aria" from "Don Giovanni; "Non Piu Andrai" and "Se Vuol Ballare" from "The Marriage of Figaro"; "Possenti Numi" and "Qui Sdegno Non S' accendi" from "Magic Flute." It is no exaggeration to say that in all probability they have never been sung better. Since there are so few genuine comedies in all opera, we prefer Pinza as the irrepressible Figaro singing "Non Piu Andrai" and "Se Vuol Ballare."

BENNY GOODMAN COMBOS playing 12 selections including three which have never previously been released. (Columbia.)

The frequency with which Benny Goodman is invited to appear with major symphony orchestras attests to the fact that he is a great musician. Perhaps even more convincing testimony is that despite the changing fads in popular music Goodman has remained at the top for two decades. Another indication of his eminent position is the quality of musicians that he is able to attract to his band. Here are some who perform in these combos: Fletcher Henderson, Teddy Wilson, Red Norvo, Lionel Hampton, Cootie Williams, Johnny Guarnieri and Mel Powell. The numbers released for the first time are "Stardust," "Gilly" and "AC-DC Current." The others are: "After You've Gone" (the one we liked best), "Breakfast Feud," "Benny's Bugle," "As Long as I Live," "On the Alamo," "Liza," "Shivers," "Slipped Disc" and "A Smooth One." This record quite likely will become one of the most popular of long play records featuring jazz.

News of the ARMED FORCES

Heroism of all kinds, even a bayonet charge and an infiltration behind enemy lines have won Atlantans in Korea enough medals to sink a Russian submarine.

Marine Col. Joseph L. Winecoff, of Atlanta was recently presented the Legion of Merit Medal for "expectionally meritorious conduct and leadership" in action against the Chinese in their third Spring offensive in Korea. The colonel who graduated from the University of Georgia in 1935, was serving as commanding officer of an artillery regiment of the First Marine Division during the offensive. . . . The Bronze Star Medal for valor, awarded posthumously to First. Lt. Fred Burton of Atlanta, was recently presented to his sister, Mrs. Claudia Gray, 618 Irwin St., N. E. in ceremonies at Headquarters, Georgia Military District. Lt. Burton was cited for heroic achievement and inspiring leadership on Jan. 2, 1951 near Yuhyon, Korea. He led a patrol to recover valuable equipment left behind enemy lines. Lt. Burton was killed in action the following month. . . . First Lt. James H. Tyree, of Atlanta, has been awarded the Bronze Star Medal with "V" device for valor in Korea. Lt. Tyree went personally into an area heavily guarded by the enemy in order to direct the fire of his artillery battery. Largely through his efforts, the battery destroyed a large number of enemy pillboxes and inflicted 25 casualties. . . . Capt. A. C. Adkins of Atlanta, has been awarded the Silver Star for gallantry in action in Korea while serving with the 1st Cavalry Division's 8th Regiment. . . . For his rescue of a downed pilot in Wonsan Harbor, Korea, William A. Vogel, boilerman, second class, USN, of Atlanta, was awarded the Bronze Star Medal. Because the rescue had to be effected as rapidly as possible, Vogel, without a thought for his own safety, "unhesitatingly went into the water, swam to the raft and towed it alongside the ship" where the burned pilot was pulled aboard. . . 1st Lt. Maynard E. Weidman of Forest Park won the Silver Star for gallantry in action in Korea. Lt. Weidman led a bayonet charge on the flank of an attacking force of Red infantry that caused the enemy to discontinue its assault. . . . The Bronze Star Medal for "heroism in action against the enemy in Korea" has been presented to Warant Officer Robert M. Taylor, of Atlanta.

Georgians in the News

Jim Gillis, State Highway chairman, said that $2,000,000 in extra funds handed to the Highway Department by Gov. Talmadge Tuesday will be used for repair and maintenance of established primary roads in Georgia — surplus produced by sales tax.

Dean John B. Walthour, of the Cathedral of St. Philip in Atlanta, was elected bishop of the Diocese of Atlanta late Tuesday night after day-long balloting of a special Episcopal Council of priests and lay delegates. He succeeds the Rt. Rev. John Moore Walker, who died July 16.

Ivan Allen, Sr., Atlanta businessman, member of the State Historical Commission, made a motion authorizing the Commission to obtain an option on the Chief Joseph Vann House in Spring Place, Murray County, to restore the historic house and turn it into a museum.

George B. Hamilton, Atlanta, state treasurer, addressed the annual convention of the National Association of State Auditors, Comptrollers and Treasurers in Seattle, saying if collecting a tax costs more than 3 per cent of the money it produces that tax should be abolished.

Dr. Wallace Alston, president of Agnes Scott College, Thursday night told the opening meeting of the Fulton County teachers' three-day workshop that "true spirituality" cannot be taught by teachers, but it can be taught by the high spiritual actions of a teacher.

A. E. Fuller, Fulton County Manager, disclosed preliminary legal phases to acquire the right-of-way for the Northeast and Northwest legs of the Lochner Expressway system will begin immediately. Only 12 parcels of land are needed to complete the right-of-way for the West connector.

ACCIDENT ROUNDUP

'Fast Draw' Youngster Injures Pal

Fifteen-year-old Malcom Daniel avowed Sunday night he would henceforth take care when imitating the "fast draw" of Wild Bill Hickock with his .22 pistol.

The front sight on the sidearm caught in the youth's holster and an accidental stray shot plowed into the thigh of a playmate, 15-year-old Kenneth Paul McLeod of 2545 Jonesboro Rd., S. E.

McLeod was admitted to Grady Hospital and treated for a flesh wound. Officers said the two had been cleaning their guns. McLeod had a rifle. He was in "good" condition late Sunday.

Eight persons were treated at Grady for injuries received in motor vehicle accidents in the Atlanta area.

Thomas Alonzo Kinsey, 20, of 840 Jefferson St., N. W., was hit by an auto in the 400 block of Fourth St., N. W. He was treated for chest injuries.

Richard Hal Stieglitz, 18-year-old Atlanta Newspapers, Inc., employee of 114 Parker St., N. W., suffered back and elbow injuries in a motorcycle accident on Northside Drive, near Francis Street, N. W. Also injured in the accident was Robert Harvey Corley, 16, of 1185 Francis St. He suffered a fractured foot and arm abrasions.

Robert A. Scott, 16, of 1534 Beattie Ave., S. W., was listed as a victim of a motorbike accident. He was knocked out temporarily when his machine hit a utility pole on Sylvan Road near Dill Street, S. W.

James Hugh Withers, 34, of 200 Anderson St., S. W., was treated for lacerations and head bruises received when a blowout threw his car off the four-lane Marietta Highway.

George Thomas Brooks, 21, of 3483 Whipple Ave. in East Point, received hand and leg lacerations in a spill on Jones Chapel Road in south Fulton County.

John B. Bridges, 26, of Fort McPherson, suffered facial lacerations when the car in which he was riding hit a utility pole on Lee Street near the Army post.

Injured in the same wreck was Miss Christine Owens, 29, of East Point, who was treated for severe bruises.

Churches of Atlanta Support 'Chest' Work

Sunday, October 14, 1951, was designated as Community Chest Sunday by the Atlanta Christian Council. More than a hundred of Atlanta's churches observed the occasion in various ways.

By DR. HARRISON McMAINS
Pastor, the First Christian Church of Atlanta

"Inasmuch as ye have done it . . ."

More than four out of five of the miracles of our Lord were performed out of compassion for the need and the suffering of those who came to Him in petition for help. From that day when He walked the earth with us, sharing our common mortality, to this day when suffering and need is all about us, the Christian churches have undertaken in His name to minister in His compassion.

Dr. Harrison McMains

It is the American way for us to free institutions and agencies from the confines of sectarian control. The history of American education has seen the schools and universities emerge from denominational sponsorship to exercise the standards of the work which they have been called upon to do.

Medicine is practiced in church hospitals according to the highest medical standards, without hamper or restraint from ecclesiastical interference. In most instances, this freedom has been had without swerving from the original religious intention which created these schools and hospitals.

So also has been the history of many of our social service and group work institutions of the kind which the Community Chest is created to support. These put into the most effective kind of practice the compassionate intention which caused religious people to create them.

Agencies which guide and direct the young, care for children, counsel with those in trouble, care for the aged—all these are controlled by boards and directed by professional personnel whose concern is that of putting our religion into practical form.

Now the wars and rumors of wars which beset us have added the necessary ministry of friendship and care for those in the armed forces through the United Defense Fund.

To the extent that they are doing for the needy the compassionate service of the churches, they deserve the primary support of church people.

We live in community. We share these responsibilities. The church is not something apart, but is a member of that community.

It is altogether right and proper that we should have a Community Chest Sunday. It is necessary that church people aid, as they have always done, in the work of solicitation. And it is incumbent upon us to follow our intention with our dollars.

RELIGION IN GEORGIA

Church Enrollment Increased by 75,000

By THOMAS M. ELLIOTT

Georgia churchfolk today are better equipped in every way to promote religious work than before, since church enrollment in Georgia this year has been increased by at least 75,000 new members, to say nothing of increased numbers of better trained lay workers and immense expenditures of money for improved physical equipment.

Baptisms in churches of the Georgia Baptist Convention will total nearly 45,000 by the end of the year, while Methodists of the two Annual Conferences report nearly 10,000 new members received on profession of faith. Official reports from Negro churches and various other denominations and church bodies are not available now; but it is reasonable to suppose that, altogether, they can report at least 20,000 new church communicants, for a grand total of 75,000 in Georgia this year.

From all over the State come reports of large expenditures for new church buildings, parsonages and installation of modern equipment. Running parallel with revival and enlistment campaigns have been hundreds of study schools for workers, training schools and seminars calculated to improve efficiency. Altogether, the churches in Georgia are today in better condition than ever to do effective work.

Amazing Grace

In the Jesus Christ religion we are commanded to love and serve God with all our mind, heart, soul and strength.

How can a person who knows and cares nothing about God love and serve Him in that manner? We are commanded to love our enemies, do good to all men and pray for the fellow who seeks to destroy us.

Can a natural man really love one whom he hates, or pray in faith for an incorrigible son of the devil? We are told to pray without ceasing and to have faith.

How can a natural man pray to and have faith in a God of whom he knows nothing? These impossibles to the natural man become easy possible to the man who comes under the power of God. Amazing grace is the one and only answer.

How Can We Know?

In the Bible that God wrote are to be found more than 1,000 verses containing the words "know" and "knowledge," while hundreds of other verses speak of certainty and assurance. Scores and scores of times in the Testaments that God wrote the sentences "that the world may know," and "that ye may know" are to be found. God does not desire that we be ignorant of Him and the salvation provided. The grand climax of world history is to be the full knowledge and acknowledgment that Jehovah alone is God. Each one of us knows whether or not we are in painful misery. God has provided for us similar knowledge and assurance from on high and experience as to our salvation here and now. However, to learn these things, we must go to God's school, where the tuition fees are high and the pupil must study 24 hours a day, seven days a week, with no vacations. But it is worth the price and effort.

Public Health Meet Begins Here Today

Latest developments in many public health fields, including biological warfare, defense and epidemic intelligence, will be reported at a meeting of more than 275 U. S. Public Health Service officials from throughout the nation here Monday through Wednesday.

Sponsored by the Communicable Disease Center, Public Health Service, the sessions will be held at the Academy of Medicine. Dr. R. A. Vonderlehr, medical director in charge of the center, will open the meeting at 9:15 a. m. Monday.

Dr. Vonderlehr said speakers would stress "emergency aspects of the nationwide CDC research and disease control programs."

Dr. Justin M. Andrews, deputy officer in charge, will preside at the opening session, which will include reports on airborne agents of disease, techniques for sampling the biological contents of air and the nationwide epidemic intelligence network operated by CDC.

902d Will Help Train Aviators

The recently-activated 902nd Reserve Wing at Dobbins Air Force Base Marietta, is one of 30 organized units in the country participating in the Air Force's long-range program designed to train nearly 60,000 civilian airmen.

The Base has been authorized $881,000 to organize a permanent staff this year and prepare for actual flying training on a regular basis next year.

The 902nd, with members from throughout North Georgia, will eventually consist of about 35 officers, 390 airmen and 100 civilians to look after what the Air Force calls "housekeeping activities" and to supervise training.

Bandit Disarmed, Flees With $35

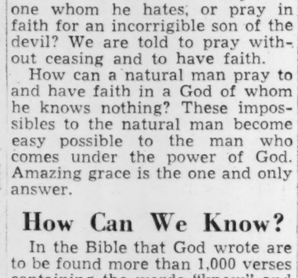

NEW YORK, Oct. 14—(AP)—Norman Ackerman, a grocery store owner, didn't know the gun was loaded.

When a holdup man pointed it at him, Ackerman thought it was a toy and calmly disarmed the man—only to discover it was a fully loaded .32-caliber revolver.

"Then I was terrified," Ackerman said later.

Transport's 35,000 Mile Voyage Reflects Wars, Past, Present, Future

NEW YORK, Oct. 14—(AP)—Wars—past, present and possibly future—were reflected in a 32,000-mile voyage completed Sunday by the Navy transport General J. H. McRae.

She sailed from New York last April, taking American troops to Europe to be ready in the event of a new war there.

Then she picked up Dutch, Greek, Turkish and Ethiopian troops and took them to Pusan to join in the present Korean fighting. From Korea, she carried war-weary United Nations troops back to Europe.

Then she steamed into New York Sunday from Bremerhaven, Germany, with 1,168 passengers—displaced persons from the last World War.

Australia has low over-all population because of its large proportion of desert lands.

High School Seniors Here To Learn About Colleges

There are a dozen questions he'd like to ask somebody . . . whether he should go to another part of the country or stick to colleges close to home; whether he's really good enough to try for a scholarship; what he should major in to insure the career he hopes for; what that college education will cost dad.

Joe will get the answer to his questions this week.

More than 100 representatives of universities and colleges will urge Atlanta high school seniors to continue their studies, making individual personal appearances before graduating students here as a part of "College Week."

ANOTHER "FIRST"

The observance is another "first" for Atlanta public schools, according to E. L. Floyd, liaison officer between universities and colleges and the Atlanta Board of Education.

Floyd pointed out that Atlanta "paced the nation" last year in establishing the liaison office. It has paid off, Floyd reports, citing statistics to prove his point.

Fifty-five percent of seniors from the class of '51 made application to 67 different higher education institutions, Floyd reported. He said 583 students from Atlanta high schools matriculated from 1948-1949 classes, with 10 percent establishing "A" scholastic records in college, and only 4 percent failing.

Floyd said 75 percent of students who will graduate in 1952 have indicated their college preferences already.

No other public educational system has an office comparable to Floyd's, he pointed out.

MANY INTERVIEWS

Floyd has attended six conventions, visited 32 colleges and has conferred with scores of students, weighing their personal problems and their preferences.

The representatives of various educational institutions will begin their appearance at various high schools Monday and will continue their work throughout the week.

The College Week schedule is as follows: Monday, 8:30 to 11 a. m., Murphy; 1 to 3 p. m., Fulton; Tuesday, 8:30 a. m. to 11 a. m., O'Keefe; 1 to 3 p. m., Sylvan Hills; 7:30 p. m., Brown; Wednesday, 8:30 a. m. to 11 a. m., Smith; 1 to 3 p. m., Southwest; 7:30 p. m., Northside; Thursday, 8:30 a. m. to 11 a. m., Bass; 1 to 3 p. m., West Fulton; 7:30 p. m., North Fulton; Friday, 8:30 a. m. to 11 a. m., Roosevelt; 1 to 3 p. m., Grady.
